GARNER AID BILL TODAY IS FACING NEW CRITICISM

Hurley and Mills Slated to Attack Plan in House Hearing.

HOOVER OBJECTIONS WILL BE AMPLIFIED

Federation of Labor Gives Indorsement to Huge Relief Proposal.

(Associated Press.)

Driven forward yesterday with the indorsement of the American Federation of Labor, the Garner relief bill will receive some resounding blows today from Secretaries Hurley and Mills, who will go before the House ways and means committee to present the opposition of the administration.

The two Cabinet officers, both of whom have already spoken against the bill, are expected to amplify President Hoover's objections, particularly to the provision calling for an outlay of $1,309,000,000 for direct relief and public works construction.

Immediately thereafter the committee plans to perfect the measure and report it. It is to be taken up in the House on Monday.

Federation's Approval.

The Federation of Labor's approval of the bill was presented to the committee yesterday by W. C. Hushing, of Washington, its legislative representative.

Although the organization is opposed to the dole, he said, it was doubtful whether the $100,000,000 carried for direct relief in the measure would be sufficient to care for the unemployed.

"Excluding the white collar workers," Hushing said, "there are more than 8,000,000 men out of employment."

He estimated that between 15,000,000 and 16,000,000 persons were in destitute circumstances and said the purchasing power of the people had decreased $11,000,000,000 annually, adding to the low economic condition.

Rail Man's Opposition.

Opposition to its provisions to improve the upper Mississippi and Missouri Rivers for commercial navigation purposes was submitted by R. H. Aishton, chairman of the executive committee of the Association of Railroad Executives.

He contended additional transportation facilities were unnecessary in this country, particularly subsidized waterway carriers.

Dameron H. Williams, of Gastonia, N. C., representing the American Cotton Shippers Association, opposed a provision that authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance funds to aid the sale of surplus cotton and wheat held by the Farm Board in foreign markets.

"There is no place on earth today in which present surplus stocks of cotton can be disposed of on any basis which will not displace a like amount of cotton moving in the normal course of commerce," Williams said.

Relief Bills Considered.

On the Senate side of the Capitol, the banking committee began consideration of the relief bills presented by the Senate Democrats and by Senator Barbour (Republican), New Jersey.

Mr. Barbour and Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, sponsor of the Democratic measure, explained their bills to the committee, and it decided to hear Secretary Mills today.

The Democratic bill totals $2,300,000 for direct relief loans to States, public construction and self-liquidating construction loans through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Barbour's bill proposes to add $1,500,000,000 to the capitalization of the Reconstruction Corporation for self-liquidating loans, both public and private.

Mills is expected to throw the administration's strength against that section of the Democratic bill which proposes a $500,000,000 bond issue for public works.

President Hoover has insisted there should be no further expansion of public works.

Dr. Ballou Is Reelected Head of Capital Schools

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District public schools, was reelected for a three-year term by the oBard of Education at its meeting yesterday afternoon. He will begin his new term July 1.

He recently accepted an invitation to teach public school administration at Yale University this summer. He is married, has two children and lives at 3117 Forty-fifth street northwest.

Dry Plank to Please All, Brown Declares

Postmaster General, Chief Strategist of G. O. P., Says Party View to Be Satisfactory to Both Wets and Drys.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A prohibition plank satisfactory to everybody, wets and drys alike, will be written into the Republican platform two weeks hence, Postmaster General Walter Brown said yesterday.

The Postmaster General, chief strategist of his party, made the statement after a talk with President Hoover at the White House.

"You can rest assured," he said, "that we will have a plank that will please everybody."

How this politicians' dream is to be realized, how a plank is to be fashioned that will at once support the dry Borah and the wet Bingham, say, was not revealed by Postmaster General Brown.

Meantime, the national prohibition board of strategy, war council of the country's 39 dry organizations, completed its plans for a battle against wet or moist planks in either the Republican or Democratic platforms.

Dr. Ernest R. Cherrington, the strategy board's choice to lead the fight at Chicago, issued a warning that any candidate or any party that makes a gesture in a wet direction can expect "organized, aggressive, relentless opposition."

Political observers saw in this a threat of a third party, but the dry leaders had nothing to say on this point.

Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican), of Connecticut, who favors a resubmission plank in the Republican platform, said yesterday that the party can not afford to sidestep the issue.

"We can not ostrich-like bury our heads in the sand and ignore the agitation of the people for a chance to pass on prohibition again," Tilson said.

For the time being interest in the preconvention controversy over prohibition centers in the White House. In the last ten days, President Hoover has clearly demonstrated that he is going to dictate the prohibition plank that is to be adopted at Chicago.

Among those who discussed prohibition with the President yesterday aside from Postmaster General Brown were Dr. Fred Smith, former international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and now chairman of the Citizens Committee of One Thousand for Law Enforcement, and a delegate from the New York Young Republican Club.

Dr. Smith, on emerging from the President's office, said he did not think either big party would injure itself if it adopted a plank declaring both for law enforcement and for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people.

SEABURY HOLDS WALKER GUILTY IN BOND OWNING

Asserts Charter Provides Removal for Having "Interest in Bids."

FIRST FORMAL MOVE ON OUSTER OF MAYOR

Accused Hotly Retorts That Prober Knows His Contention Is False.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Evidence which Samuel Seabury said constituted grounds for the removal of Mayor Walker was presented to the Hofstadter legislative committee today.

The gray-haired committee counsel charged Walker had violated the city charter by holding bonds in a company which received a city contract for $43,556 worth of traffic lights.

"And I say it is grounds for removal and has been so held and is so provided in section 1533 of the city charter," Seabury told the inquiry board in stern tones.

Walker himself, in Detroit, charged Seabury with "unfairness" and said the lawyer "well knew" that the bonds "came into my possession without any knowledge on my part of the company's business."

"Seabury knows," the mayor continued, "that these were bonds and not stocks of the company, and that they represented a mortgage in the company and not an interest in it."

First Removal Demand.

Seabury's statement to the committee was the first in which he has given any intimation he will file charges against the mayor, and the first time he has said the mayor should be ousted.

It also was the first time Seabury had followed up the introduction of evidence against the mayor with a charge that a violation had been committed for which a specific penalty was provided.

The section of the city charter Seabury referred to states that any city official who is a stockholder in, or is directly or indirectly interested in any corporation having a contract with the city, can upon conviction be forced to forfeit his office and can be punished for a misdemeanor.

Among the day's witnesses was Dr. William H. Walker, the mayor's brother, to whom William J. Scanlan, who sold equipment to the city, said he paid more than $2,500 for medical services. Dr. Walker had been sought by Seabury's aids since shortly after Scanlan testified.

Brother's Practice Listed.

The mayor's brother acknowledged he had received about $50,000 in the last five years by serving as a consultant on the call of Dr. Thomas J. O'Mara, one of a group of physicians designated to treat injured city employes under the workmen's compensation act. He added, however, that none of the cases from which he derived fees was a city case.

Seabury showed him two checks received by Dr. O'Mara from the city, an March 3 and 4, 1931, totaling $1,502.20, and one Dr. Walker received from Dr. O'Mara on March 5, 1931, for exactly half that amount.

The mayor's brother repeated, however, he had not handled any city cases. He told of financial transactions with three other physicians in the group. He said he had been an examiner for the Board of Education since 1925 at $6,500 a year, that he received about $500 a year for serv-

Youth, 17, Sentenced Again to Die in Illinois

Rockford, Ill., June 1 (A.P.).—Saved from the electric chair once by the Illinois Supreme Court, 17-year-old Russell McWilliams again was given a death sentence by Judge Arthur E. Fisher today, after a second trial.

The supreme court had awarded the young killer a new trial after Clarence Darrow had pleaded his case and eminent social workers, Jane Addams and the late Julia Lathrop among them, had interceded because of his youth. McWilliams killed a street car conductor in a robbery. He said he had drunk liquor to gain the nerve for the holdup.

REVENUE BILL CONFERENCES START TODAY

House and Senate Units Confident of Early Agreement.

SMOOT SEES PLAN TO HOOVER IN WEEK

Credit Given President for $1,121,000,000 Measure's Passage Protested.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

House and Senate conferees on the $1,121,000,000 tax bill are to meet for their first session this morning with both sides confident of a quick settlement of the differences between the two houses.

The House yesterday went through the formality of disagreeing to the bill as amended by the Senate, and Speaker Garner named conferees to meet with the representatives of the Senate who had been appointd immediately after that body passed the bill.

Representatives James W. Collier, of Mississippi, chairman of the ways and means committee; Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, who was acting chairman of the committee while it was framing a tax bill, and Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, majority floor leader, were named as the Democratic conferees. Representative Willis Hawley, of Oregon, ranking minority member of the committee, and Allen Treadway, of Massachusetts, were named as the Republican members of the conference committee.

No Delay Expected.

There are many and important differences between the tax bill passed by the House and the measure passed by the Senate. How serious these differences will prove remains to be seen, but none is expected to hold up agreement on the measure for any great length of time.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee and head of the Senate conference committee, said he thought an agreement would be reached in a few days, and the bill would be finally acted on and sent to the President for his signature early next week.

Representative Rainey said he expected an agreement would be reached in two or three days.

Indicative of the willingness of the House leaders and membership to seek agreement with the Senate was the fact that no instructions were given the House conferees on any of the Senate bill provisions.

Representative Fred Britten (Republican), Illinois, said yesterday he would seek to have the general sales tax put into the measure in conference, but his announcement of his purpose wasn't taken very seriously. The sales tax is a deda dog in the tax bill pit.

Hoover Credit Protested.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, ranking minority member of the finance committee, took the Senate floor yesterday to protest mildly against newspaper stories which, he said, seemed to indicate that "the Paul Revere ride of the

"Treachery" Is Charged To Mission of Filipinos

Manila, June 1 (A.P.).—The Philippine Independence Mission now in the United States was attacked tonight at a mass meeting for "treachery." The meeting was called to protest amendments to independence bills now pending in the national congress, sponsored by former Governor General W. Cameron Forbes.

The Independence Mission was criticized for favoring the Hare bill, passed by the House of Representatives, and the Hawes-Cutting bill now pending in the United States Senate.

NEWEST PAY CUT PLAN CALLED REPUGNANT AS SENATE DELAYS ACTION

Public May Shoulder Senate Electric Tax

Gen. Patrick Says Effect of Levy on Rates in District Is Conjectural; Consumers Would Pay on Gasoline.

Just what effect the Senate tax of 3 per cent on gross receipts of electric utilities would have on the rates of the Potomac Electric Power Co. in Washington is conjectural, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, but District tax officials are unanimous in the belief that the 1 cent gasoline tax would be passed on ultimately to the consumer here as well as elsewhere.

Any adjustment in electric rates, either upward or downward, if the Senate tax becomes a law, would depend upon the earnings of the power company, as in the past. The tax would be charged against operating expenses, however, and would obviously reduce the profits of the company.

Last year the gross receipts of the Potomac Electric Power Co. amounted to $10,900,000. Three per cent of this would produce a tax of $327,000, and would have brought the total Federal and District taxes of the utility to $1,393,000, thereby reducing the company's net profits to $4,907,000. The power concern last year paid $616,000 in Federal and $450,000 in District taxes.

At the beginning of this year the commission, after abrogating the consent decree, under which electric rates had been fixed for seven years, accepted a compromise allotment of $860,000 for use in reducing rates, while its proposed new sliding scale, which would materially increase the share of excess profits devoted to rate slashing, was tied up in litigation.

This sliding scale, which cuts the original rate of return from 7½ to Members Protest Vote on Slash on Such Short Notice.

LOW-SALARIED HELD BILL'S CHIEF VICTIMS

Five Amendments Offered; Opposition to Be Organized Tonight.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Precipitate Senate action on 10 per cent salary cuts was checked yesterday after members had raced through legislative appropriations leading up to the $238,605,000 economy bill. Here the Senate drew up to an abrupt stop.

Protesting a vote on so short notice, after members had assailed the slash as "repugnant" and "inequitable," Senator George W. Norris (Republican), Nebraska, obtained a recess until noon today to afford senators time to "study" the drastic reductions.

A floor fight on the sweeping cut was led by Senator Hiram W. Johnson (Republican), California. He charged more than one-half of the Government's entire retrenchment proceeds would come from workers earning less than $3,000.

"Repugnant," Johnson Says.

"There is something repugnant to me in taking from charwomen and underpaid workers the money we are asked to save," he said. "I will go to any lengths to economize elsewhere. It would be about as conducive to happiness and prosperity to cut these small salaries as it would be helpful to the health of a human being to let out every drop of blood from his body."

Senators Gerald P. Nye (Republican), North Dakota, and Robert M. La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, joined Senator Johnson in his effort to prove the burden of the entire economy program is placed on the shoulders of low-salaried Government workers.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat) Oklahoma, came forward with an alternative proposal. Since total Government appropriations for repair and construction work aproximates $300,000,000, why not lift this sum bodily from the pending supply bills, include it in the Federal relief program and finance it through a bond issue? he asked.

Committee Stands Firm.

This, he said, would enable the Treasury to balance the budget and permit the Senate to spare low-salaried workers in its pay-cut program.

Members of the bipartisan Senate economy committee, however, stood stolidly behind their program. Chairman Wesley L. Jones admitted the proposed slash "looks pretty hard on Government employes who are not overpaid now" and said he personally thought some difference should be made in the various salary groups.

"We should appreciate, however, what has been done in private industry," he said. "I think there is a general feeling throughout the country that Government employes should bear some part of this burden. There are many inequities in our plan, but you would find them in any plan. Placing every one on the same basis, we feel we have taken the fairest way and the most equitable way."

Total From Low Salaries.

Figures presented by Senator Nye, purporting to show that $104,395,000 of the saving would be taken from workers paid less than $2,000, were corrected by Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, a member of the economy committee. Senator Nye withdrew them, whereupon Senator Johnson demanded that the correct figures be produced.

The figures were not immediately at hand, and Senator Jones was unable to give a direct answer. Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connec-

TRANSIENT AID BILL UNDER STUDY TODAY

Senate Subcommittee Is Named to Scan Plan Favored by Glassford.

A Senate subcommittee today will begin a hurried study of the proposal of Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, that $75,000 be appropriated immediately to care for, transient groups coming to the Capital to seek legislation.

Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the District committee, created the subcommittee after the latter group had heard three hours' testimony yesterday with regard to the Costigan bill which would also authorize $600,000 for local relief agencies.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, and the chairman himself will comprise the subcommittee. Senator Capper said he regarded the care of such penniless groups as a "distinctly Federal matter." He did not think the funds raised for local relief work should be diverted to such channels.

The $75,000 appropriation was opposed by District Commissioners Luther H. Reichelderfer and Herbert B. Crosby, while Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, told the committeemen he favored it.

"I don't think I am disloyed to the Commissioners in favoring this appropriation," observed Gen. Glassford, who has been working arduously to care for the bonus marchers here, though he strenuously opposed their coming here.

Gen. Glassford last night indicated he had reports that 300 more bonus marchers were at Hagerstown, Md., and would arrive here today. This report came on the heels of a message from Adjt. Gen. M. A. Record, of Maryland, at Annapolis, that his State would render no further transportation aid to bonus marchers.

5 IN GRIEVED FAMILY DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

New York Father and Four Daughters Kill Selves After Death of Mrs. Del Rio.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—A father and his four grown daughters were found dead today, victims of a suicide pact signed by all five. They took their lives last night in hysterical grief over the death of the wife and mother.

Shortly after noon police found the bodies of Carlos Del Rio, 55, Vincenzia, 25; Josephine, 24; Kuadiliupi, 21, and Mrs. Matilda Munoz, 29, in the bedroom of their Prospect Park apartment. Gumencindo Munoz, Matilda's husband, called for aid when he tried to gain admittanee and smelled escaping gas.

Del Rio, a wholesale lingerie merchant and native of Argentina, and two of the women, all fully clothed, were in one bed. The other two, in nightclothes, were in the other. A rubber hose had been stretched from a gas stove in the kitchen to the bedroom.

Del Rio's wife died of pneumonia yesterday in a hospital.

The father and three daughters were hysterical when they interviewed Arch C. Carey, an undertaker, about funeral arrangements, Carey said. They told him they had spent all their money trying to save Mrs. Del Rio's life, and one of the girls

Kidnaper of De Jute Boy Is Given Life in Prison

Warren, Ohio, June 1 (A.P.).—Anthony Lauri, 37, of Youngstown, today was convicted by a jury of kidnaping 11-year-old James De Jute, jr., of Niles, last March 2.

The verdict carrying a penalty of life imprisonment, was reached in 1 hour and 35 minutes after seven ballots had been taken.

Col. Lindbergh Resumes Secret Laboratory Work

Returns to Research in Undisclosed Field of Science at Rockefeller Institute; Loss of Weight Shows Effect of Ordeal.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has plunged into his research work with renewed vigor in an effort to put the past behind him. He goes almost daily to an extensive laboratory reserved for his personal use in the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, but exactly what he does there is hidden behind a barrier of secrecy.

A few months ago it became known Col. Lindbergh, then the happy father of a curly-haired son, had been working on a centrifugal apparatus designed to separate serum from the blood.

Observers, however, are disinclined to believe his whole attention is riveted on such a prosaic affair as a centrifuge. Curiosity has been whetted by instructions prohibiting employes from approaching the Lindbergh laboratory or attempting to engage the famous flier in conversation.

When Lindbergh sits among them for luncheon in the restaurant on the grounds, he is not disturbed. None speaks of the dire events which the colonel is trying to forget. They have been cautioned, too, against talking abroad about the colonel's return to his laboratories, so that he may enter and leave without being subjected to the gaze of curious outsiders.

Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the institute, has only this to say:

"The institute is a big place. I have no way of knowing what is going on there all the time."

Other officials hold to the belief that "if a private individual wishes to come in here and do research work that is his affair; we will not say

FRANCE EASES BAR UPON U.S. IMPORTS

Agreement Grants America Most-Favored Place on Quota List.

Paris, June 1 (A.P.).—The United States and France concluded today a trade agreement which cleared the way for increased American imports and wiped out bothersome uncertainties against which American business men have been forced to struggle under the French quota system.

The accord, concluded after long negotiations conducted by Ambassador Walter E. Edge, grants the United States most-favored nation treatment on imports now limited by quotas. It was made public as Mr. and Mrs. Edge and their three children were boarding a boat-train on their way for a vacation at home.

American business men had made numerous protests against the quotas, which were frequently changed and resulted, therefore, in instability in the importing trade. They also had attacked the quotas as unfair to American products.

United States trade has suffered about $2,500,000 as a result of the quotas. It was estimated that today's agreement would recoup $500,000 of this loss. In general, it restores American imports to the 1931 level.

For instance, radio sets permitted to enter the country from the United States were increased about 20 per

TEN BELIEVED DEAD IN CALIFORNIA FLOOD

Colorado River, Swelled by Melting Snows, Cuts Holes in Levee.

Blythe, Calif., June 1 (A.P.).—A flood crest raged down the silt-covered bed of the Colorado River today, punching holes in weakened levees and endangering farm lands.

The river, kicking out of its traces after ten years of good behavior, was stemmed at one vital break in a levee 6 miles north of here before it could pour its destructive waters extensively over nearby farm lands. The damage was negligible.

Twenty-one miles to the southwest, the strong currents cut another gash in a levee, but no dirt was available to plug the hole and irrigation officials were forced to stand by idly as the river flooded several thousand acres, mostly brush land.

The flood crest, caused by the melting snows of spring in the distant mountains, had passed here at noon and the river gauges began to drop slowly.

Riven men estimated it would reach Yuma, Ariz., about Friday. "There will be some damage there if their levees are no stronger than ours," one said.

Ten Negroes were believed to have lost their lives yesterday when the rising currents swept them off an island. The bodies of three were recovered.

For the present, irrigation officials here anticipate no likelihood of a repetition of the floods in 1922 and 1905, when the river descended on the Imperial Valley like the waters of a broken dam and wiped out hundreds of farming ventures.

There is a probability, officials said, that flood conditions may become more serious late this month, although they do not expect even then a danger such as occurred ten years ago.

The present levees along the river were constructed following the flood

Eight in Illinois Are Given Prison Terms in Kidnaping

Group Convicted of Abducting Wealthy Surgeon Get 5 to 25 Years; Three Defendants, Including Woman, Acquitted; Verdict After 7 Hours.

Peoria, Ill., June 1 (A.P.).—Illinois courts today struck their second heavy blow in two days at the kidnaping racket.

A Circuit Court jury convicted eight men of abducting James W. Parker, a wealthy and prominent surgeon, last March and holding him eighteen days for $50,000 ransom. Three defendants, one a woman, were acquitted, but the others were given prison terms of from 5 to 25 years.

Only yesterday a Chicago judge sentenced two men to serve life terms for the kidnaping of the wife of Dr. Max Gecht last December. The law has experienced no such success against kidnapers since the punishment of those who stole little Billy Ranieri several years ago.

Dr. Parker, police and prosecutors met almost uniform success throughout the case. The surgeon was returned unharmed to his family without payment of ransom. Twelve arrests were made and twelve confessions obtained shortly afterward, and the convictions were returned at the end of the three-week trial, within two months of Dr. Parker's release.

James W. Betson, contractor and once candidate for mayor, was convicted as the alleged head of the gang. His nephew, Cecil Minninger, a former convict; Claud Evans and Arlo Stoops, an insurance salesman, were convicted on the State's charge that they were the actual kidnapers and all were given terms of 25 years in prison.

Stoops' brother, Raymond, a farmer near Banner, Ill., was given fifteen years imprisonment; Dwight Bartlett, of East Peoria, seven years, and At-

CLARK TRIAL HINGES ON PROOF OF CHECKS

Montgomery Court Devotes Second Day to Testimony on Clark's Account.

Three Montgomery County officials had received checks drawn on the account of "Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners," in payment of funds transferred from the office of Berry E. Clark, on trial in Montgomery County Circuit Court on charges of embezzlement of county funds while clerk to the county commissioners, it was brought out in cross-examination yesterday by defense attorneys.

This was brought out in support of the contention of the defense that the account was not a secret account, but that it was well known to county officials. The three officials said that they had not paid much attention to the account, and that in most instances employes of their offices had handled the checks.

The trial went into its second day with a crowded courtroom. Through most of the day, State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, in a monotonous tone, read off the checks which had been deposited in the alleged "secret account."

Welsh Draws Laughs.

P. Barnard Welsh, defense attorney, drew several laughs when he asked, while reading off checks which had been paid by Mr. Clark to the county officials, some of which were for stone, repairs of private driveways and dust, "Has the county gone into the stone business?"

The checks were offered in the course of cross-examination which followed proving of checks paid into the account of Mr. Clark, and which the State introduced as part of the groundwork for proving that Mr. Clark had transferred some of the funds to pay out $426, which he is alleged to have embezzled in the indictment on which he is being tried.

J. Forest Walker, county treasurer, testified that he had received a number of checks from "Berry E. Clark," clerk to the county commissioners," which he had deposited in the Farmers Banking & Trust Co. in the account of "J. Forest Walker, treasurer."

Welsh resses for Answer.

"Now, I'll ask you if you haven't known ever since you have been in office that Berry E. Clark has maintained such an account?" Mr. Welsh asked. Mr. Walker said he did not know for sure, as many of the checks had been handled by his clerks and he hadn't paid much attention to that phase.

Mr. Walker said under cross-examination that it had been his custom to check his books against those of Clark, but a question by defense as to whether or not they always agreed was objected to and upheld. Mr. Walker then was asked if it was not a fact that he checked all fund books against Clark's, and he replied that he had not personally done so, but that his clerks had. He further said that in the event of a discrepancy that "we searched until we found the error."

Former Sheriff Joseph B. Plyes and Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale both testified on cross-examination by defense that they had received checks in connection with county business from "Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners." Both said they had not paid any particular attention to the manner in which the checks were signed or indorsed. Sheriff Lansdale said he had not understood there was any secrecy about the account.

Agreement on Checks.

Necessity of placing a number of witnesses on the stand to identify checks which had been paid into Clark's account for reimbursement of the care of insane persons, fees and fines from the sheriff's office and tax redemption payments, wats obviated when defense attorneys and State Attorney Prescott went into a huddle at lunch time and finally agreed that the checks could be introduced without proving, if the defense could maintain its blanket objection to their introduction in evidence. News of the huddle originated a rumor that Clark was going to change his plea to guilty, and packed the courtroom still more.

Defense objected to admission of these checks on the ground that the indictment alleged embezzlement from the county, while these were all State funds. Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Arthur D. Willard and Robert B. Peter overruled the objection and noted an exception by the defense. The defense attorneys are Mr. Welsh, Thomas L. Dawson, Albert M. Bouic and E. Barrett Prettyman.

Public business in the county is seriously hampered this week since most of the county officials have been summoned as witnesses and are kept in court awaiting their turn to testify.

Among those called to identify checks before the agreement were Chief Assistant Treasurer Charles M. Speicher, of Maryland, who identified several State vouchers paying the county's share in franchise taxes; Hunter Davidson, bookkeeper of the W. H. Walker real estate firm of Washington, who identified tax redemption checks paid by his company; John P. Winant, treasurer of the Gillett Co., investment brokers, who identified several checks given as surety on bids for county bonds; Howard Campbell, manager of the Central Amusement Co., who identified a check given in payment of the license of Chevy Chase Lake Amusement Park; Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Circuit Court, who identified the signature on a check indosed by the late Preston B. Ray, formerly clerk of the court. Nearly a dozen persons who had paid for care of insane patients also identified checks.

Expert Says Railroads Injure Highway Work

Salt Lake City, Utah (U.P.).—Australia's highway construction program is more or less hamstrung by government ownership of railroads, according to James A. A. Pollock, engineering fellow of the University of Queensland at Brisbane.

Pollock is touring the United States studying the highway system.

In Australia, he said, the government operates the railroads. Distances between population centers are so great and the consequent operating deficit so large that much of the tax money which should be diverted to highways, goes toward maintaining the rail lines.

SENATE'S PAY SLASH PLAN DENOUNCED; ACTION DELAYED

ticut, an economy committee member, estimated $103,000,000 would be realized from workers drawing $3,000 and under. Senator James F. Byrnes (Republican, South Carolina, also a committee member, sent out for data. He later informed Senator Johnson that $43,000,000 would be raised from workers drawing less than $2,000 under the committee plan.

Five amendents to the economy bill were offered from the floor and ordered to lie overnight on the table. One by Senator John H. Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, would give the President broad power to effect further governmental retrenchment.

Powers of President.

The amendment would empower the President "to suspend during any part of the next fiscal year the operation of independent offices, bureaus and commissions, and to discontinue personal services, costs, expenses, salaries in any of the executive and independent departments, agencies and offices of government."

Identical amendments, striking "night work" from the economy provision restricting pay for overtime, were offered by Senators Samuel M. Shortridge (Republican), California, and J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), Illinois.

Senator George H. Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, offered two amendments, one of which exclude civilian officers and employes of the Panama Canal located on the isthmus, and foreign service employes abroad, from the provision limiting annual leave to 15 days.

Before taking up economy provisions in "part 2" of the legislative bill, the Senate struck $15,000 from an appropriation for books for the Supreme Court Law Library, on motion of Senator Norris. The fund waas cut from $40,000 to $25,000. Previously it had been cut from $50,000 by the committee.

House Approval Forecast.

"If it is true that we are going to cut salaries, then we ought to cut this library appropriation," said Senator Park Trammell (Democrat), Florida, suggesting the step.

Meanwhile Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee, predicted the lower chamber will approve the flat 10 per cent wage cuts if passed by the Senate. Personally opposed to any reduction in the lower brackets, Representative Byrns nevertheless was convinced the House would reject its 11 per cent slash with $2,500 exemption in favor of the Senate plan if the proposal is directly put to them.

Economies under the retrenchment program may not stop with the $238,605,000 contained in the economy bill, Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, a member of the Senate economy committee, intimated yesterday. He said the Senate appropriations committee had decided to apply 10 per cent appropriations committee had decided to apply 10 per cent appropriation cuts to the remainder of the supply bills, with a saving of approximately $350,000,000.

Protest Meeting Tonight.

Opposition to the latest omnibus economy proposals crystallized on three fronts yesterday. President Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employes, said the bill if enacted will throw thousands of Government workers beneath the level of bare subsistence. President William Green, of the national emergency committee on legislation affecting Federal employes, called a meeting of that group for 8 o'clock tonight. Secretary Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, charged discrimination against postal night workers.

C. W. Browning, vice chairman of the national emergency committee on legislation affecting Federal employes, comprising 25 national and local organizations, said a united movement to defeat the economy bill will be organized at tonight's meeting. At least 12 more national groups plan to join forces with the committee, he said.

Outrageous, Steward Says.

President Steward said:

"The National Federation of Federal Employes refuses to believe that the deliberate judgment of the Congress of the United States will tolerate such an outrageous proposal, or that public sentiment will support such a disregard of the rights of the loyal and efficient army of civilian employes who are dependent upon legislative action for their working conditions."

MAYOR WALKER IS ACCUSED IN OWNERSHIP OF BONDS

ing the board of retirement, and that he had a special license from the Athletic Commission to examine boxers and wrestlers before matches, for which he was paid about $50 per bout.

Block Again Witness.

During the day's session a committee accountant testified an analysis of the mayor's three bank accounts from the time he took office January 1, 1926, to December 1, 1931, showed credits of $307,605.50, and withdrawals of $285,712.15, and a balance of $21,893.35.

Paul Block, newspaper publisher, who testified last week he established a joint brokerage account from which Walker drew nearly $250,000 profit without a cent's investment, was another witness.

He had explained the account by saying he established it out of friendship for Walker, after his son, Billy Block, had asked him how the mayor could live on his salary.

The publisher testified that at Walker's request a $7,500 check was drawn on the joint account for an unnamed friend of the mayor—the same person who, it was disclosed yesterday, was paid approximately $75,000 from the bank accounts of Russell T. Sherwood, whom Seabury calls Walker's personal financial agent.

Basis of Seabury Charge.

John W. Prentiss, senior partner in the brokerage firm of Hornblower & Weeks, told the committee at on March 25, 1927, Sherwood called upon him with $100,000 in cash and opened a socalled "secret trustee fund."

No investments were made with the money, he said, but the total was increased from time to time until on August 9, 1927, $263,838.36 was withdrawn. This account is one of the many Sherwood had which Walker has denied knowledge of or interest in.

Seabury for nearly a week has been attempting to link the mayor with the $1,000,000 financial transactions of the missing $3,500 a year accountant.

The evidence on which Seabury based his charge that Walker had violated the city charter was furnished by Harry J. Rosenbloom, treasurer of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co.

Rosenbloom told how the concern on January 9, 1931, was awarded the contract for 104 bronze traffic standards.

He said J. A. Sisto & Co., brokers, underwrote a $1,000,000 bond issue of the company. He said he did not know the mayor and, although he knew Sisto, had never mentioned the city contract in conversations with him.

Seabury then pointed out that Walker himself had testified ten bonds of the Reliance Co. were included in $26,500 worth of securities he received in 1929.

The committee counsel contends the mayor received the securities from Sisto while Sisto's company was interested in the promotion of a taxicab company.

Walker said he received them as his share of the profit of a pool in an oil stock he was invited to join, without the necessity of making any investment, about the time he first met Sisto in 1929.

The mayor furthermore pointed out he had vetoed a bill increasing taxicab fares which would have brought $1,000,000 in increased profits to the company in which Sisto was interested.

Walker Cashed Coupons.

Regarding the Reliance bonds, Walker had said he turned them over to Mrs. Walker "and then forgot about them."

Seabury introduced documentary evidence that $600 worth of coupons from the bonds had been deposited in two instalments in Walker's bank accounts.

"The record shows," the lawyer said, "that the coupons were deposited by the mayor in his personal account. He says he turned those bonds over to Mrs. Walker, where they now are."

One of the Democratic minority committee members asked if it was Seabury's contention "the mayor can not buy stock in any corporation."

Seabury replied the mayor under the charter is not allowed to hold stock in a company having a city contract.

It was indicated by Seabury's aides the phase of the inquiry into the city government centering on the mayor will be concluded within several days.

Walker Denounces Charge.

Detroit, Mich., June 1 (A.P.).—The full text of Mayor Walker's statement in reply to Samuel Seabury's charges is as follows:

"While I am absent from New York City attending a conference of mayors of the United States, I have been informed by local newspapermen that Mr. Seabury, with his characteristic sportsmanship, has made another of his unfounded charges.

"The charge involves a matter with which he and I were entirely familiar, and yet he, with malice aforethought, avoided asking me about it while I was a witness for two days before the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee.

"The Reliance Bronze & Steel Co. bonds which he refears to came into my possession, as he well knows, without any knowledge on my part of the nature of their business; and now, in my absence, owing to Mr. Seabury's continued passion for misleading newspaper headlines, I am informed he makes mention of the fact that this company won a contract from the City of New York without his explaining the circumstances, with which he is well acquainted.

Recites Story of Contract.

"The police commissioner, in the regular legal way, advertised for bids for the construction of the new Fifth avenue signal standards. After the legal period of advertising, some eight sealed bids were submitted and opened by the police commissioner and the results thereof published. After a thorough investigation by Commissioner Mulrooney and his engineering experts, the contract was awarded to the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co. because they were the lowest of all competitive bidders. Mr. Seabury knows the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co. bid was approximately $41,000. The second lowest bidder was approximately $48,000. Under the policy of this administration, Mr. Seabury knows, contracts are always awarded to the lowest bidder, and so the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co. got the contract in this way—for this reason and no other.

"Mr. Seabury knows full well that this matter was one that never came under the official eye of the mayor or any one in his office. He further knows, as under oath I testified without dispute or challenge by him or any one else, that those bonds were immediately upon receipt given to Mrs. Walker during the latter part of 1929.

Denies Any Profit on Jobs.

"After fourteen months of the most searching investigation, at a cost of $750,000, of this present administration which during the last seven years has appropriated or spent approximately $10,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, the startling charge is now made that I profited to the extent of $600 out of a $41,000 contract. Mr. Seabury knows, if he knows anything straight, that this is not true.

"Mr. Seabury knows, because he has proven it, that I received the bonds during the latter part of 1929. He knows that I forthwith gave them to Mrs. Walker. He knows and has proven that the coupons amounting to $600 were deposited in the Federation Bank during 1930. He knows and has proven that the contract was awarded by the city to the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co. during 1931. He also knows that no coupon has been cashed since that date. He knows that these were bonds and not stock of the company, and that they represent a mortgage on the company and not an interest in it.

"That is what he knows, and so do I. And what I know and what everyone else in the City of New York knows who has ever had anything to do with the city, is that I have never profited a single dollar by any act or omission of mine relating to the city's business or affairs during my term of office.

"This latest completely fraudulent charge should prove conclusively that no matter what other motive he may have, Mr. Seabury never intended to be fair."

U.S. RELIEF FOR IDLE IS URGED BY MAYORS

Walker Leads in Demand for Help Made at Detroit Conference.

Detroit, June 1 (A.P.).—Demands for Federal aid in relieving unemployment distress of the cities were voiced by a majority of the chief executives of 28 cities who attended a national mayors' conference here today.

The distress in various cities was pictured by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York; Mayor James Curley, of Boston; Mayor William J. Hosey, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and others.

While these executives were urging Federal aid in different forms, Mayor George D. Begole, of Denver, alone dissented.

Denver, he said, was taking care of the unemployment problem nicely, and added that no matter how much the cities borrowed from the Government, their citizens would have to pay it back.

Mayor Walker told of institutions filled with "undernourished children" and "pathetic rows of little white cots in the hospital hallways and corridors, with lines outside awaiting admittance that are too long for the public conscience to stand much longer."

Mayor Curley said that not less than 10,000,000 persons were out of employment, and that 10,000,000 more are suffering from wage reductions. "I fear for the coming winter," he said. Mayor Hosey said "the thousands and tens of thousands of men and women in industrial centers without food, clothing or a place to sleep" present a serious problem.

While the executives of 28 cities responded to Mayor Murphy's invitation, he let it be known that 48 other mayors or city managers had declined, some because they disagreed with his proposal for Federal aid, and others because of "the press of other matters."

The plans for the help of distressed municipalities proposed various forms of Federal aid, ranging from a suggested $5,000,000,000 "prosperity loan" for the creation of jobs, to an amendment to the reconstruction finance act to permit loans to cities or the refinancing of their present bonded obligations.

PUBLIC MAY ASSUME NEW ELECTRICITY TAX

7 per cent, is still awaiting a final court decision.

When the commission accepted the compromise it issued a formal statement, which among other things said:

"In view of the business uncertainty now existing, the considerable difference made by the destruction of so many buildings in the triangle area, the probability that heavier taxes will be imposed on the company this year and the positive benefit which will promptly follow an undisputed order fixing the new rates, the commission has thought it best to accept this offer of the power company."

Although the sponsors of the 3 per cent tax are desirous of preventing this tax from being passed on to the public, there is every indication that it would be, though it might not immediately affect the present electric rates.

As for the gasoline tax of 1 cent a gallon, it would be certain to be passed to the consumer in the opinion of District tax officials. It would virtually impose a tax of 3 cents a gallon on gasoline bought in Washington, as the District now collects a 2-cent tax.

Based on the consumption of gasoline during the fiscal year 1931, the Federal tax would amount to $870,460.73 in the District alone. This consumption, incidentally, has been increasing by leaps and bounds each year. The District government during the last fiscal year collected $1,740,921.46 in gasoline taxes, all of which was devoted to street and highway projects as provided by law.

Should the Mapes proposal of a 4-cent tax on gasoline be adopted, Washingtonians would in effect be paying a 5-cent tax on each gallon purchased.

The District and four States are paying the lowest gasoline tax at present, viz., 2 cents. Ten States are paying 3 cents, seventeen 4 cents, nine 5 cents, one 5½ cents, four 6 cents and two 7 cents. Kansas collects no tax on gasoline.

Mr. Edge convinced French officials that the old quotas had been unfair shortly after another diplomatic triumph—the negotiation of an accord which eradicated the double taxation burden carried by American business organizations with branches in France. These two agreements will form the base of a general commercial treaty for which Mr. Edge will negotiate when he returns to his post.

Today's agreement, which was set forth in the form of a decree signed by Premier Andre Tardieu, was described by Mr. Edge as a genuine manifestation of Franco-American understanding.

The ambassador expressed gratitude for the assistance he received from M. Tardieu and foreign office officials who, despite other pressing problems, "approved at this time a measure which will bring relief to every section of the United States."

Inquiry Ordered by U. S. in Explosion on Tulsa at Amoy.

(Associated Press.)

The death of one sailor and injury of twelve others in an explosion of ethyl chloride aboard the gunboat Tulsa, at Amoy, China, yesterday was reported to the Navy Department by Admiral M. M. Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet.

The admiral gave no details except that the explosion occurred in the refrigerating plant compartment.

Wilbert E. Leathers, second-class fireman, of Salisbury, Mo., received a fractured skull and died almost immediately.

Those injured were:

whether Col. Lindbergh is here or not."

Lindbergh, who was known as "Slim" long before his son was kidnaped, has obviously lost weight, but his countenance is cheerful as he eats his luncheon in the institute's restaurant.

There is much speculation as to the nature of his work. In connection with the serum experiment, it was recalled that Lindbergh's first association with the institute was when he flew to Quebec with some antipneumonia serum provided by it for the stricken Floyd Bennett. It is thought he might be interested in developing a serum to be carried on polar flights, but that is only one of the guesses.

Raymond's wife, Jessie, their 17-year-old son, Dean, and Edward Woodford, a hired hand on their farm, were acquitted. The twelfth person indicted, Mrs. Minninger, turned State's evidence and was discharged during the trial.

The jury deliberated only seven hours but was locked up all night.

Lone Tree Survived Napoleon's Plan

Paris (U.P.).—There is only one tree in the Versailles forest which was there when Louis XVI was alive, according to a Frenchman who has spent much time investigating the matter.

"While first consul of France, Napoleon I decided that wood, and lots of it, was needed for the famous expedition across the English Channel, later abandoned," he says. Napoleon declared therefore, that all the forests of France should give of their best. From one end to the other, the Versailles forest was cut down and the trees shipped to Boulogne for transformation into rafts and convoys.

"Only one tree escaped. This is a giant oak which towers above the rest of the forest in the Allee Saint-Cyr."

CONFERENCES ON TAX BILL TO START TODAY

President to this chamber yesterday" had forced a recalcitrant Senate to pass the tax bill.

He doubted if there had been any other measure which had been considered with so little partisanship, he said, adding that the Senate would have passed the bill on Monday night had it not been for the effort of Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, whom Harrison described as an administration spokesman.

Senator James E. Watson (Republican), Indiana, majority leader, agreed with Senator Harrison on the absence of partisanship in consideration of the measure and said he wouldn't challenge any of the facts set forth by the Mississippian. But, Senator Watson asked, Senator Harrison wouldn't try to impugn the patriotic motives and sincere interest in the national welfare which prompted the President to deliver his special message to the Senate, would he? Senator Harrison said, no, he wouldn't do that. He was just talking about the impression given by some newspapers of the facts.

JUDGE STATES VISIT TO STILL IS LAWFUL

Illicit Plant Is Destroyed in St. Marys County by Federal Agents.

Visitors to a still are not violating any law, and an automobile track leading from a still to a house is not sufficient evidence to connect the occupants of the dwelling with the illegal distillery, U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran held yesterday in dismissing charges against five men after a preliminary hearing in Upper Marlboro.

James Wenk and Allie Yates, both living in Charles County, were dismissed after a third man told Parran that the pair had only come to the still to get a drink. Wenk, Yates, and Richard Dent were arrested during a raid on a "kettle" near their home. After Dent had given the testimony which led to the dismissal of charges against the other two he was held in bond of $1,000 on charges of manufacture, possession, and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor.

Three brothers who were arrested because an auto carrying part of a still had apparently come from their house were also released after a hearing. The trio—Samuel, William, and Alfred Suite—live between Hughesville and Charlotte Hall. Federal agents, driving into a suspected still, met the car on the road and followed the tracks to the house. The still, which was complete except for the part found on the car, was destroyed.

Four men, accuserd of operating small stills in southern Maryland, were also brought before Judge Parran yesterday and each was held in bond of $1,000 on charges of manufacture, possession and possession of articles for manufacture.

Gwinn Williams, of St. Marys County, is accused of operating a 75-gallon still and of possessing 200 gallons of alleged mash. William Owens, also of St. Marys County, was charged with running a 100-gallon copper still and having 15,000 gallons of alleged mash.

Francis Williams and Carroll Reed, who live near Charlotte Hall, were accused of transportation of liquor in addition to the manufacture charges. Federal agents said they caught the pair driving a load of alleged whisky away from a 150-gallon still near their home.

Other hearings yesterday resulted in the holding of Gourlay Hance, of Mutual, Md., and Andrew Dyer, of Marshalls Corner, for action of the Federal grand jury. Hance is said to have been connected with a still near his home which was raided last month, when eight persons were arrested. Dyer is accused of running a 300-gallon still which was being fed from a reserve of 4,000 gallons of alleged mash.

talked of suicide, saying the family had nothing left to live for.

Five notes were found in the gas-filled bedroom. One, addressed to Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and signed by all five, said all had agreed to die, and asked that the bodies be cremated together. Insurance money they ordered be paid to a Catholic Church for masses for their souls.

The Del Rios' son died two years ago, police were told, and since that time the mother had suffered frequent hallucinations that she was visited by his ghost.

Police recalled Del Rio asked for protection in 1929, relating that he was heir to a $2,000,000 estate in Argentina, and that he was receiving anonymous threats against his life. They abandoned investigation of the story, when Del Rio complained also of being annoyed by ghosts.

Chairman for 1932 Campaign to Be Elected June 10 at Parkersburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 1.—Andrew Edmiston, jr., of Weston, Democratic State chairman, has issued an official call for the new State committee of the party to meet June 10 at Parkersburg. The committee was elected at the State-wide primary election May 10.

The chief duty of the committee at this meeting will be to elect a chairman for the campaign this summer and fall. The committee also will elect a woman vice chairman, a secretary and a treasurer.

Among other duties the committee will be required to perform is that of electing a national committeeman and a national committeewoman and that of determining the date and place for holding the party's State judicial convention, which will probably be held in August. In addition to making judicial nominations, this convention will adopt a State platform.

Mr. Edmiston decided upon the date of the organization meeting of the new committee at a conference with Democratic leaders at Charleston. Following the announcement it was learned that Huntington will be the meeting place for the State convention and that Charleston will likely be selected for the State campaign headquarters.

Four candidates for a new State chairman to succeed Edmiston are said to have been considered at the conference. They are Arthur B. Koontz, of Charleston, and C. P. Nelson, George I. Neal and F. Witcher McCullough, all of Huntington.

Annapolis Graduates Get Awards at Dress Parade

421 Midshipmen Ready for Diplomas at 11 Today After Busy Week of Drills and Social Events Climaxed by Brilliant Ball.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 1.—The brilliance of the farewell ball tonight, given in honor of the graduates, brought to a close a week of social festivities and drills leading up to commencement day at the United States Naval Academy.

And 421 hardy young men who have just completed the difficult four-year grind as naval wards of Uncle Same are all expectancy over the coming of the morrow when they will receive their diplomas. Commissions as ensigns in the regular line await 379 of the midshipmen. The resignations of the other 42, submitted either voluntarily or by reason of physicial disability, will be accepted simultaneous with the award of diplomas.

Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams, who is to deliver the principal address and award diplomas, arrived in Annapolis at 4:45 this afternoon in time to attend the regimental dress parade at which prizes for excellence in scholastic work and professional branches, and awards for athletic prowess, were presented. Mr. Adams officiated at most of the presentations.

The Secretary of Navy was accompanied by Mrs. Adams and his naval aid, Capt. Harold R. Stark, and Mrs. Stark. Those in the party are the overnight guests of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy and Mrs. Hart. The Assistant Secretary, Ernest L. Jahncke, and Mrs. Jahncke, whose son, Ernest L. Jahncke, jr., is a member of the junior class, will join the official party tomorrow morning.

The only other event of importance on today's program was a physical drill under arms, put on by two battalions of the regiment. Meanwhile the stage was being set for the graduation exercises scheduled for 11 o'clock in the morning. They will be held in spacious Dahlgren Hall, more familiarly known as the armory. Admission will be by ticket and the supply was insufficient to meet the demand.

Commencement, like most other events at the Naval School, will be shorn of one of its traditional customs. There will be no rush to the marriage altar immediately after diplomas are distributed. Though no formal mandate was issued, it is known that powers that be at the Academy frowned on the practice, maintaining that nuptials occasioned too much excitement for one day. However, mroe than a score of weddings among the class are in the offing, and the Academy chapel will furnish the setting for a number of them Friday and Saturday. Others will take place in churches in Annapolis, Washington and elsewhere. Over a dozen licenses have been obtained from the local county license bureau by the prospective bridegrooms.

The regimental dress parade at 5:20 o'clock this afternoon was featured by the presentation of prizes for excellence in scholastic and professional branches, and awards for prowess in athletics. Many of the prizes are offered by patriotic or other organizations; others are memorials to decreased officers; and still others are offered annually by former classes of the academy.

Richard S. Mandelkorn, of Peoria, Ill., who was an outstanding student throughout the four-year course, and who is the "honor" graduate, was the recipient of five of the principal prizes. The awards that will go to him are:

Gold watch, presented by the class of 1924 for the highest standing in engineering and areonautics.

Cup, presented by the General Society Sons of the Revolution for proficiency in practical ordnance and gunnery, name to be engraved on cup, which is retained at the Naval Academy.

Wrait watch, presented by the Military Order of Foreign War, for highest standing for the course in mathematics.

J., graduate of the Academy in the class of 1868, prominent financier and sportsman, who died a few years ago. Col. Thompson is known as the Academy's greatest benefactor, and was the moving spirit in the organization of the Navy Athletic Association.

Following is a list of other principal awards—the recipients being seniors unless otherwise stated:

In addition to these prizes, a large number of midshipmen were recently presented gold, silver and bronze medals for championships and other outstanding individual achievements in the several branches of sports, together with the awards of Varsity "N" to the different team men.

Though most of the przies were presented by Secretary Adams, in several instances the awards were made by others as follows:

President Accepts Ingalls' Resignation

Aeronautics Head Prepares to Leave for Ohio for Governorship Race.

(Associated Press.)

David S. Ingalls closed his desk in the office of Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics for the last time last night and prepared to leave for his native Ohio to campaign for the governorship.

President Hoover yesterday accepted the 33-year-old Assistant Secretary's resignation from the Federal service so that Mr. Ingalls might be free to carry on his political battle. The Assistant Secretary had held the post for nearly four years and had been an important figure in the program to complete in four years a five-year naval aircraft project.

For reasons of economy, the post will not be filled and Ingalls' duties will be absorbed in other naval bureaus. Since March, when he began campaigning for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Mr. Ingalls has voluntarily turned back all salary checks from the Federal Government.

RICHMOND WOMAN HACKS 2 DAUGHTERS

Children Are Critcally Hurt by Attack With Hatchet While Sleeping.

Richmond, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—Mrs. Turner S. Shelton, 42-year-old mother, attacked with a hatchet and critically wounded her two daughters, Mary Elizabeth, 11, and Eleanor, 9, while they slept at their home today.

Dr. Turner Shelton, father of the children, said the younger daughter was evidently knocked unconscious with the first blow, but the older one struggled with her mother.

Authorities said they believed Mrs. Shelton had become mentally unbalanced.

Attracted by screams of his children, Dr. Shelton ran to their room to find the door locked. Gaining entrance, with the help of the wounded Mary Elizabeth, he found the children to be critically hurt. They were taken to a hospital where blood transfusions were made immediately.

Police reported several notes, the contents of which were not disclosed, had been pinned to the pillows on the beds of the two children.

The hatchet was a new one, but police did not immediately learn when or by whom it was purchased.

When she arrived at the jail hospital, police said they found Mrs. Shelton had a cut on the hand, believed to have been received while she was wielding the hatchet.

Mrs. Shelton was said to have been in a highly nervous condition recently, and Dr. Shelton had been occupying a room on the first floor, while Mrs. Shelton had a room to herself on the second floor. She had been in ill health for four or five years.

Reed Blocks Proposal To Permit Bonus Loans

(Associated Press.)

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, yesterday blocked Senate consideration of a proposal to permit loans on veterans' service certificates any time after issued. Mr. Reed objected when Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, the sponsor, sought unanimous consent to take it up.

The Pennsylvanian asserted it would add $70,000,000 to the cost of caring for veterans. The present law allows the certificates to be used for loans up to 50 per cent of their value two years after their issuance.

Constable Freed In Liquor Slaying

W. Lacy White Acquitted in 20 Minutes by Jury in Fredericksburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 1.—Constable W. Lacy White was acquitted by a jury here late this afternoon on charge of first degree murder resulting from the killing of Norris Tarman, 26-year-old Fauquier County youth, on March 21, while resisting arrest on prohibition charges. The jury deliberated 20 minutes. White was indicted jointly with Constable J. P. Cromer, Orange County, who was granted a separate trial and whose case will be nolle prossed.

A jury of Hanover County citizens heard the case against White, the court having ruled that because of prejudice against White he could not obtain fair trial before a Spotsylvania jury.

Tarman was fatally injured by White and Cromer when they sought to arrest him after a lengthy chase on the highway. Five witnesses for the prosecution testified that after Tarman alighted from his car he was felled by a bullet fired by Cromer and that as he lay prostrate two shots were fired into his body by White. White and other defense witnesses testified that Tarman shot first and that the officers fired in self defense while Tarman was standing.

SENATE UNIT FAVORS EXPANSION OF CASH

Glass Substitute for Goldsborough Bill Approved by Banking Group.

(Associated Press.)

A move to permit expansion of the currency by approximately $1,000,000,000 was approved yesterday by the Senate banking committee.

Without opposition, the group reported favorably a measure which would authorize the use of all United States bonds as a basis for currency for a five-year period.

The proposal was advanced by Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, as substitute for the Goldsborough bill, passed by the House, which would have the Federal Reserve Board stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar at the 1921-29 level by its open market operations.

"I distinctly disavow the belief that any of these legislative devices is necessary at this time," said Glass to newspapermen. "I simply offered the bill in question as a substitute for the Goldsborough bill which I regard with utmost aversion."

Norbeck's Support Won.

Glass said that if the bill becomes a law the 7,800 national banks could expand their circulation to the extent fo $1,108,000,000.

Chairman Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, said he favored the Goldsborough bill, but voted for the substitute. He added:

"A discussion in the committee led to the view that inflation might be a very good thing but that the inflation as provided in the Goldsborough bill might not be the best way."

The measure is sponsored by Representative Goldsborough (Democrat), Maryland, and has been vigorously opposed by Gov. Eugene Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Board. He contended that Congress should not order the board to continue what it is already doing and that the command to restore the price level would be impossible of fulfillment.

Wholly New Plan Provided.

The Glass substitute proposes a wholly new plan, the measure providing that national banks may secure currency on their Government bond holdings to the extent of their capital.

Glass believes his proposal would bring about a more "diffusive" expansion over the country.

"I dissent from the view that there is any need of artificial inflation of the credits or currency of the country," said Glass, "but, nevertheless, if there is to be any more inflation it should be brought about by a simple method which everybody may understand and not by the roundabout process which is being vainly tried by the Federal Reserve authorities. In short, I think there should be 'diffusive' inflation rather than so-called 'controlled' inflation by the central authorities who imagine that this expansion, beginning in the big money centers, will trickle down to the smaller communities throughout the country."

Action Extremely Unlikely.

Senator Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, regarded as the administration spokesman on the committee, said the additional expansion could amount to no more than $994,000,000.

He said that at present the amount of currency outstanding on the class of Government bonds that have the circulation privilege—2 per cent gold bonds—is $114,000,000 short of the amount that the banks have authority to issue.

"The fact that this is not issued," he said, "is evidence that it is not needed."

He emphasized that the additional expansion authorized in the Glass substitute "would not take place unless it was needed" and added that he did not believe "there is a demand at the present time for this additional expansion."

Prospects of action at this session on the currency expansion measure appeared extremely remote.

Blackmer Charges Off U.S. Tax Books

Internal Revenue Bureau Announces Abatement of Deficiency.

(Associated Press.)

The books of the Internal Revenue Bureau were cleared yesterday of the long-standing tax deficiency charges against Henry M. Blackmer, wealthy Denver oil man. The bureau announced an abatement of $170,772 deficiency income taxes assessed against him.

Blackmer, missing witness in the Teapot Dome oil cases, who refused to return from Europe to testify for the Government, last month paid $3,669,784 to the Government to settle approximately $8,000,000 deficiency taxes assessed against him. A few days later he paid $60,000 in fines to the District of Columbia Supreme Court which had assessed him that amount after finding him guilty of two charges of contempt for failure to appear as a witness in the trials of Harry B. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior.

The order yesterday merely wiped off the Internal Revenue books $170,772 of income tax, penalties and interest assessed against Blackmer on his income for 1922 and 1923. The amount was included in last month's settlement.

$75,000 TRANSIENT AID BILL WILL BE CONSIDERED TODAY

Cumberland, Record said in substance:

"I understand there is a large contingency of veterans now on the border of the State of Maryland. Gov. Ritchie is out of the State. I am not in sympathy with this movement.

"If this contingent expects to come across the State of Maryland, they will have to walk, as I will not furnish them transportation."

Gen. Glassford has arranged a large warehouse, which is Government property, at Seventh and L streets southwest, on the waterfront, for the accommodation of the latter group, if it arrives. Its members will be fed out of the scant funds now available. An Army rolling kitchen has been provided, as well as bedding.

Other reports to the police head were that a calvacade of bonus seekers aggregating 1,000 men was about to start for Washington from Philadelphia, Pa., and adjoining Camden, N. J.

While confirmation of the latter report had nto been made last night, decision has been reached by Gen. Glassford to shelter the Northern contingent on a field just west of Nichols avenue southeast, and across the Eleventh street bridge. This tract is part of the District park system.

Army Field Kitchens.

Field kitchens would be provided by the Army, Gen. Glassford said, and an appeal would be made for tents. If the latter were not forthcoming, Gen. Glassford said, "we will order lumber and put up the wall-less we have planned before."

The police chief, under whose wing the 700 veterans are comfortably disposing themselves in the two barracks provided here, sent out letters to the governors of a number of States asking that all resources possible be used to discourage the movement of any further veterans toward this city.

"So far," Glassford wrote, "we have been able to cope with the situation, and the visiting veterans have been housed, fed, and medically attended.

"Unfortunately the residents of the District of Columbia are forced, through lack of federal appropriations, to contribute to the support of these visitors in addition to our 19,000 unemployed."

Early last night press association dispatches indicated a "bonus parade" of several hundred marchers had left Detroit, Mich., en route to Toledo, Ohio, with their eventual goal as the Capital. The men were riding on flatcars furnished by the Michigan Central Railroad. The railroad was said ot have donated the flatcars after a report tht 1,500 veterans would commandeer a Washington-bound passenger train.

Mobilize in Southwest.

From El Paso, Tex., came word that nearly 1,000 unemployed veterans had ... from points in Arizona and New Mexico to begin a journey here to join the bonus plea.

3 Held in Atlanta Theater Bombing

Six Injured by Explosion Which Climaxed Series of Terroristic Acts.

Atlanta, June 1 (A.P.).—Three persons were arrested here today for a series of terroristic tactics in an Atlanta theater that was climaxed Monday by the explosion of a bomb and the injury of six people.

Police said two of the prisoners, Herman Mosley, 18, and Mike Carmichael, 17, have confessed and implicated Royce Means, 26, projectionist at another theater, as the instigator of the terrorism. Means denied any part in the plot but officers quoted Mosley as saying means gave him $15 to buy flashlight powder and gun powder that was placed in a milk bottle and exploded under a theater seat. He was also quoted as saying Carmichael was hired to plant the bomb.

A dispute between officials and employes of the theater some time ago was followed by the bursting of odor bombs and the release of snakes in the showhouse.

Western Sea Gulls Eat Grasshoppers

Birds Again Aid Farmers in Salt Lake Area to Fight Plague.

Pocatello, Idaho, June 1 (A.P.).—Sea gulls, which turned back the grasshopper pest that threatened the Mormon pioneers' crops the year after their arrival in the Great Salt Lake Valley in 1848, today came to the aid of farmers battling another invasion of the Tyhee section near here. The gulls arrived in increasing numbers from the American Falls reservoir and immediately fell upon the insects.

Nature also lent her assistance with cold rains and lowering temperatures, which quieted the movements of the grasshoppers.

Farmers whose lands are affected joined forces with officials of Bannock and Bingham Counties and the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. More than 200 men were stretched along a 20-mile front, contesting the advance of the winged hordes. Senator John Thomas telegraphed from Washington today that $500 had been made available by the Government to fight the hoppers.

VON PAPEN FORMS GERMAN MINISTRY

Dissolving of Reichstag Is Expected to Be First Act of Regime.

Berlin, June 1 (A.P.).—A cabinet crammed with ennobled aristocrats and devoid of parliamentarians or representatives of organized labor was formed tonight under the chancellorship of Franz von Papen.

Although von Papen, whose activities in 1915, when he was military attache at Washington, led the United States to ask his recall, is the nominal head of the ministry, the power behind the throne is Gen. Kurt von Schleicher.

The general is credited with the maneuvering that brought about the downfall of the ministry of Dr. Heinrich Bruening without the necessity of so much as a Reichstag defeat.

There is not a lieutenant of Adolph Hitler in the new administration, but President Paul von Hindenburg, Hitler, and Gen. von Schleicher are authoritatively reported as seeing eye to eye.

To Dissolve Reichstag.

It became virtually certain tonight that the first act of the new government would be to dissolve the Reichstag. At party caucuses the Centrists and the leaders of the Bavarian Peoples party decided to vote against the new ministry.

The Socialists also belong to the indicated opposition, and among these three parties there are 230 votes, only 54 short of the number necessary to overthrow the Government. Political commentators said the 54 votes would be obtainable easily from other groups.

Even before the Centrists and Bavarians had announced their course, a government spokesman declared that should the chancellor learn in advance he could not command a majority he would dissolve the Reichstag forthwith, without awaiting a vote and without even presenting the customary statement of policy.

New German Rulers.

The new rulers of Germany are members of a "presidential cabinet," so-called because it was formed solely on the authority of the president, who had lost confidence in Dr. Bruening, although on the occasion of the last test the Reichstag upheld the Breuning ministry. The cabinet list:

Chancellor, Franz von Papen, interior, Baron Wilhelm von Gayl; defense, Kurt von Schleicher; economics, Dr. Hermann Warmbold; agriculture and eastern relief, Baron Fredrich Edler von Braun; transportation and posts, Baron Eltz von Reubenac).

Government spokesmen said that Baron Konstantin von Neurath, ambassador at London, was certain to be appointed foreign minister, and that Dr. Karl Goerdeler, who has served as "price dictator," would be the minister of labor. The chancellor expected Franz Guertner, former Bavarian minister of justice, to accept the justice portfolio.

Argentina to Reduce Army.

Buenos Aires, June 1 (A.P.).—The government announced today that 2,882 conscripts, part of the Army class of 1932, would be dismissed on June 20, after less than half the customary service of one year, as an economy measure.

Hero of Submarine Rescues Is Buried

Alexandria, Minn., June 1 (A.P.).—A man twice honored for heroism in submarine work was buried here today.

James W. Frazer, 38, for more than fifteen years a deep-sea diver and torpedo man in the United States Navy, more recently a Minnesota highway patrolman, died from a heart attack at Fergus Falls, Minn. Known as "Big Jim" because of his staunch physique, he helped in salvage work on a number of torpedoed vessels during the World War.

He took part also in rescue operations after the United States submarines S-5, S-51 and S-4 sank. He was cited by President Coolidge for his work after the S-51 went down and by Navy Secretary Wilbur in connection with the S-4.

CONFEDERATES HOLD REUNION IN FAIRFAX

Seven Members of Marr Camp of Veterans Attend Fete Given by U. D. C.

The annual reunion of the Marr Camp of Confederate Veterans was held yesterday at historic Fairfax County courthouse. Only seven of the "boys" who followed Gen. Robert E. Lee, answered the roll call, which contained the names of 155 originally.

Those present yesterday were Samuel H. Fletcher, J. P. C. Chinn, J. N. Pollin, C. E. Davis, Judge J. M. Love, Capt. ames Wiley and Thomas H. Lee. The reunion was held under the auspices of the Fairfax Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, who served dinner to the veterans in the Sunday school room of the Southern Methodist Church.

The celebration opened in the courthouse, with former Representative R. Walton Moore paying tribute to the veterans and introducing Charles H. Callahan, of Alexandria, as principal speaker.

Mr. Callahan outlined the part Fairfax County had played in the destiny of the United States. He also spoke in glowing terms of Robert E. Lee and his father, "Light Horse" Harry Lee.

The town of Fairfax, he stated, was the scene of the first actual conflict in the war. This battle occurred about 2:30 on the morning of une 1, 1861, when the Pauquier Rifles repulsed the invasion of Fairfax by the forces of Gen. McDowell. Capt. John Q. Marr, the leader of the Rifles, was the first Confederate to be killed in the war. He died a short distance from the old courthouse.

Following the speaking the graves o fthe veterans buried in the Fairfax Cemetery were decorated and taps was sounded at the Confederate Monument.

TWO RECORDS MADE BY ARMY'S BALLOON

Lieuts. Paul and Bishop, "Harmony Twins," Set Unofficial Marks.

Omaha, Nebr., June 1 (A.P.).—Coaxing their big hydrogen bag through storm-assailed skies to establish two new unofficial records, Lieuts. Wilfrid J. Paul and John H. Bishop—Uncle Sam's "harmony twins"—tonight appeared certain winners of the 1932 national balloon championship.

Paul and Bishop, the latter a regular Army sergeant competing as a reserve lieutenant, brought their Army No. 2 balloon down 13 miles north of Hatton, Saskatchewan, Canada, early today to win the national balloon race and gain possession of the Litchfield Trophy. The victory also assured them a place on the United States team in the international race in Switzerland next September.

Distance and Endurance Marks.

By reaching Hatton, 901 miles northwest of Omaha, the pair set, barring disqualification, a new distance record for balloons of 35,000 cubic feet capacity. They likewise shattered the existing endurance record for bags of that class.

The previous distance record was set in 1927 by S. A. U. Rasmussen at 571 miles when he flew from Ford Airport, Detroit, to Hookerton, N. C., in the same race the duration record, broken by Lieut. Paul and his aid, was established by E. J. Hill and A. G. Schlosser. They stayed aloft 26 hours and 40 minutes. The Army bag's time in the air was estimated unofficially at 29 hours 15 minutes.

The Goodyear VII, piloted by Roland Blair, winner of the 1930 race from Houston, Tex., was the nearest competitor of the "harmony twins" so dubbed by Army associates because of their harmony while aloft. The Goodyear entry landed yesterday near Tyvan, Saskatchewan, 700 miles from Omaha.

How Others Finished.

Following is the unofficial order in which the remaining competitors finished, together with landing place, approximate distance, duration of flight and crew:

3—Army No. 1, Sherwood, N. D., 605 miles; 17 hours. Capt. W. J. Flood, pilot; Lieut. Haynie McCormick, aid.

4—City of Omaha, Sterling, N. D., 450 miles; 14 hours. Eddie Hill, pilot; Roscoe Conklin, aid.

5—Chevrolet Motor, James, N. D., 410 miles; 13 hours. Tracy Southworth, pilot; John Engle, aid.

6—Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce, Fort Calhoun, Nebr., 10 miles; 45 minutes. Pete Larsen, pilot; Harold Larsen, aid.

Heart Balm Suit Deferred.

Los Angeles, June 1 (A.P.).—A continuance of the $300,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss M. H. St. Pierre, Pasadena nurse, against David L. Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, was granted until June 20 today by Superior Judge M. F. McComb.

TESTIMONY QUASHED AT COBLENTZ TRIAL

French Corrects Statement on Value of Note as Case Drags.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 1.—The trial of State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, president of the Central Trust Co., Frederick, charged with having accepted a deposit when he knew the bank was insolvent, dragged tediously through today with only one witness on the stand, William B. French, treasurer of the Central Securities Co., Blue Ridge Investment Co., and the Blue Ridge Securities Co., subsidiaries of the Central Trust Co.

French yesterday started his testimony which has to do with placing value on notes and bonds held by the investment and securities companies. He goes through the great mass item by item and the prospect of the trial going almost indefinitely caused the counsel on both sides to confer, with the consent of the court, with the view to agreeing on items. Those pertaining to the Central Securities Co. will be gone over and action in this case may govern proceedings as to others.

The testimony of French has developed that much of the properties of the investment companies were held in the name of other people for convenience sake. It involved what might be called "gentlemen's agreements."

Identifies Transactions.

French went over obligations, identifying transactions of the Blue Ridge Investment Co., involving pledges with the Central Trust Co. on Blue Ridge Investment Co. notes totaling $2,416,063.05. The State is endeavoring to show by this testimony that the holdings of the Central Trust Co. in connection with the various subsidiaries are so reduced in value as not to be worth more than 10 per cent of their book value. The total book value of the obligations of the four subsidiaries—Blue Ridge Investment Co., Blue Ridge Securities Co., Central Securities Co., and Blue Ridge Heights Co. is placed at more than $5,000,000.

When French took the stand this morning he asked to correct a statement he made yesterday that a note of the Walbrook Securities Co. for $109,782.76 was worthless and declared today it had a value, according to his calculations later made of records of $80,802.20 and the company had assets of 21.764 per cent to meet it. This caused the defense to attack French's qualifications as a witness. The testimony of yesterday and today analyzing the account was ordered stricken out. French was quizzed regarding the Guarantors Investment Corporation note of $95,000, in which the Blue Ridge Securities Corporation figured. It was testified 2,213 shares of stock of the Continental Life Insurance Co. were received by the Blue Ridge Securities Co., and a note was made and signed by five individuals, Coblentz, R Paul Smith, John S. Hershey, T. (Bert) Haywood, and one other, whom French did not remember. He said the stock was being held by the First National Bank of Pittsburgh. He said he did not know what was behind the transaction.

Balance Sheet Discovered.

Another item, known as the Grayson H. Staley note of September 25, 1929, was the next source of questioning. It was brought out that Staley is a brother-in-law of Coblentz. The condition of the Staley Motor Co., of Frederick, and its balance sheet, as of December 31, 1931, was discussed, despite objections by defense counsel. The balance sheet was offered as evidence by the State.

A series of notes made from September 3, 1929, to April 15, 1930, in which another company, the Security Land & Investment Co., appears, in which there were exchanges, and in which the Blue Ridge Securities and Central Trust Securities or President Coblentz, figured in the transactions also was the subject of repeated questioning.

The State intended to call George R. Linkins, of Washington, D. C., president of George R. Linkins Co., a real estate firm, on the stand as the first witness today when the defense objected on the ground that there was no reason to have the State's expert without having several which the defense will bring here from Washington. The defense said it had not been advised of the State's intention and would not be prepared today. Linkins is to testify as to the value of Washington realty in connection with securities held by the Central Trust Co.

First Marathon Holdup Leads to Youth's Arrest

Humboldt, Tenn., June 1 (A.P.).—No less an authority than Town Policeman Williams says Gordon Fry has shown Humboldt something new in the ways of banditry. The youth arrived here yesterday and proceeded to march Roy Liles, the town's leading furniture merchant, up and down Main street at the point of a pistol.

Town Policeman Williams says the motive was to worry Liles into drawing $150 from the bank so he could be robbed of that amount.

But things like that can't go on while Town Policeman Williams is about. He grabbed Fry from behind and locked him in jail.

Movie Agent Discovered Dead From Shot Wound

Hollywood, Calif., June 1 (A.P.).—Grant E. Dolge, 47, film booking agent, was found dead today from a bullet wound. His wife told police she heard a shot and rushed into her husband's bedroom to find him dying. She said he had been worried financially.

Dolge had represented various film stars for about eleven years.

Kreuger Firm Gets Moratorium.

Stockholm, Sweden, June 1 (A.P.).—The cabinet today granted the Swedish Match Co., a Kreuger concern, a moratorium to the end of August. The company reported that it was in a difficult position regarding liquid assets and that some time would be required to complete a plan for reorganization.

FORT WORTH PICKED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Negro Missionary's Protest on Texas Convention Is Ignored at Denver.

Denver, June 1 (A.P.).—The harmony of the closing session of the 144th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America was momentarily disturbed today when the Rev. Irving W. Underhill, Negro missionary, who has been serving in West Africa, objected to Fort Worth, Tex., as the 1933 meeting place. He urged that the Negro delegates go on record as refusing to meet "in any place where a Negro can not be treated as a man and a brother."

Moderator Charles W. Kerr, of Tulsa, Okla., made an attempt to stop Underhill on the grounds that he was not speaking to the question before the house.

"I won't be stopped that way," Mr. Underhill answered. "I am speaking on the question—on the question of next year's meeting place. A Negro can not be a man in Texas. It is impossible to be prejudiced and a Christian at the same time."

There was no discussion on Mr. Underhill's protest, and a motion by Dr. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, that the next assembly meet in the Texas City was carried without further opposition. No other city invited the assembly for next year.

For the first time in the history of the church women were elected to the general council. The feminine members of the governing body chosen are Mrs. Burdette Lewis, of Princeton, N. J., and Miss Lucy Dawson, of Baltimore, Md.

Oboe Was to Ancient Egypt What Saxophone Is to Us

By JOHN J. DALY

AFTER some three thousand years of silence, an Egyptian oboe sent forth its pastoral and plaintive effects under the guidance of a musician in the University of Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

The oboe, discovered in Egypt by an Oriental excavator, was put back in its case after the long, long silence had been broken—left to its poignant memories.

Three thousand years from now, say, some one excavating around the night club districts may dig up a saxophone, another orchestral instrument of wind and reed, like the oboe; though there are tenor saxes, alto saxes, barrys, and—what is worse—bass saxophones; base, indeed!

Egyptologists, up to the present time, have accounted for most of the musical instruments used in the old country; but no amount of study or research has ever divulged the origin of the saxophone.

If the saxophone had any birthplace, and was not involved in the intricacies of evolution, perhaps America is guilty.

* * * *

ANYWAY, the difficulties standing in the way of those who would trace the origin of the saxophone back to the days, and nights, of earlier civilizations are almost insurmountable. It is doubtful if the oboe—as almost any good oboist will affirm—is in any way connected with the saxophone, though they are sometimes associated in symphonic jazz. This, of course, is no fault of the oboe—merely the perversity of a certain school of musicians, willing to try anything once. Hence the doleful tones of the oboe.

The saxophone, by its record of the past few years, has a lot to answer for; more, perhaps, than should be laid at the door of any instrument of torture.

Should some miscreant, some day, about 3,000 years from now, drag out one of these freak melody-makers, and point to the present period, sounding an A and recalling the halcyon days of jazz, posterity will immediately know how to explain the machinations of the Machine Age—the Infernal Machine Age.

* * * *

UNLIKE the soft, sober tooting of the oboe, the raucous sound of the saxophone will split the ears of future scientists and, if it is blown loud enough, some of the uninitiated working around the excavation grounds may take running jumps into the excavations—driven insane.

There will be just one great note of gladness, and rejoicing, throughout the world. This, in the knowledge that a saxophone could be kept quiet 3,000 years. It sounds too good to be true, 3,000 years of saxophone silence, and the world will probably come to an end at the first blast—the inhabitants mistaking it for Gabriel's horn.

RADICAL PANACEAS SCORED BY RITCHIE

Warns Against Sacrifice of American Ideals to End Economic Crisis.

Asheville, N. C., June 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland sounded a warning today against the sacrifice of American ideals under the pressure of present conditions in the hope that some remedy may be evolved for relieving the business depression.

The Marylander spoke to a group of local Democratic leaders attending a service club luncheon. He came to Asheville to deliver an address to the Jefferson Democratic Club of Buncombe County tonight.

"The present program of our National Government," the speaker said, in referring to remedies for the depression, "reflects none of the American ideals for self-reliance, self-initiative, and self-government of the free people of a free land.

"It is better for us to fight the depression much harder—to stand it a little longer—before we scuttle these American principles," he declared.

Saying "the situation is critical, we must admit," the governor continued, "but it would be nothing less than folly to ignore American policies which have proved their soundness by their success, and rush headlong into some of the radical, if not socialistic, panaceas which are being proposed with all earnestness in high places."

EGAN BALKS INQUIRY ON WIDOW'S DEATH

Public Defender Refuses to Answer Questions at Coroner's Inquest.

San Francisco, June 1 (A.P.).—Frank J. Egan, San Francisco's public defender, refused to answer questions at a coroner's inquest today into the death of a friend and client, Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes.

Mayor Angelo J. Rossi announced he had decided to suspend Egan after the public defender took the witness stand at the inquest but declined to testify.

In that refusal, Mayor Rossi said, Egan had become liable to charges of misconduct in office in refusing to cooperate with other officials seeking a solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Hughes, a widow, more than a month ago.

Police decided the woman was killed in a simulated hit-run accident. They said Egan allegedly had announced he was a beneficiary of her will and life insurance policies.

The public defender "disappeared" shortly after her death, but turned up a few days later in a sanitarium, allegedly suffering from shock. Since then he has refused to answer police questions.

Verne Doran, former chauffeur for Egan, who was returned to San Quentin Prison on a parole-violation charge during the police investigation, also refused to testify on constitutional grounds.

Police said Doran a few hours preceding the death of Mrs. Hughes, borrowed a motor car from a city fireman "to take Frank Egan for a ride."

Three little words that "upset the apple cart" in the cigarette trade

O. K. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestras, and famous Lucky Strike news features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

Do you inhale? Can any question be simpler? And yet—what a furore it has created! The cigarette trade feels that the public has been let in on a sacrosanct secret! "You've upset the apple cart," they say.

Why such anxiety? Certainly the public doesn't fear the question—for everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly . . . every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes!

FINISH AND ADJOURN.

Three more hurdles must be cleared by Congress before an adjournment can be taken. A formidable economy measure is already occupying the attention of the Senate. The appropriation bills must be enacted before July 1, and both houses have promised some action on a relief measure designed to encourage business and create jobs. When these objectives have been attained Congress can best serve the country by closing up shop and settling down to a quiet summer of politics.

The public breathed a sigh of relief when it awoke to find that the Senate had passed the revenue bill. With dogged persistence the coalition of Republican and Democratic leaders forced the measure through, even though many of its features are objectionable to them. The Senate demonstrated that it can act with dispatch and determination when it is so inclined. The manner in which it responded to President Hoover's plea gives hope that immediate action will be taken on the other important bills remaining for consideration.

Likewise the House showed a disposition to rush the tax bill to the White House. By unanimous consent the House sent the measure to conference, and refrained from instructing its conferees so as to facilitate the work of harmonizing the House and Senate measures. The conferees will meet today and make adjustments with all possible speed.

Action on the tax bill alone is not enough to revive public confidence. What business wants is a chance to take advantage of the constructive measures that have been enacted by Congress and put into effect by the Federal Reserve Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Industry wants a chance to proceed with assurance that no radical legislation will remove the solid ground from under its feet. Fear that Congress might not balance the budget has been mingled with apprehension lest a few fanatics pass the bonus bill, secure the adoption of measures for the inflation of the currency, for the issuance of more Government bonds, for the guarantee of bank deposits, and similar nostrums. So, even with the budget balanced, the public is uneasy and will not feel safe until Congress has finished its work and gone home.

A drive for completion of unfinished business before the Senate is in order. That body can move with remarkable speed when it settles down to work in an atmosphere that is free from politics. Only a few days should be necessary for disposition of the economy bill. Appropriation bills could then be passed at the rate of one per day. Even the controversial subject of unemployment relief should not require prolonged debate, since the plan of the Senate Democrats is almost in line with that of President Hoover, and there is no chance of the Garner pork-barrel measure becoming law.

Assuming that the essential measures will be passed, the greatest contribution that Congress can now make to economic recovery is an early adjournment. A drive toward that end would stiffen the backbone of business and encourage the national endeavor to shake off the stupor of depression.

THE DOLLAR IS SOUND.

One of the most impressive parts of President Hoover's address to the Senate called attention to the "fears and doubts that have been foolishly exaggerated in foreign countries." "Despite our national wealth and resources and our unparalleled gold reserves," he continued, "our dollar stands at a discount in the markets of the world for the first time in half a century." Congress ought to blush with shame for this condition, because it is a direct result of its dilatory tactics on the revenue bill. Yet the absurdity of foreign "fears and doubts" must be apparent to any one who is familiar with the actual gold backing of the dollar.

Three years ago the monetary gold stock of the United States totaled $4,298,000,000. The last weekly average compiled by the Federal Reserve Board shows that this country now has $4,274,000,000 in monetary gold. The difference is so slight as to be unnoticeable. Yet some European alarmists persist in circulating rumors that the United States will suspend the gold standard. Such rumors are so utterly without foundation that one can only pity the gullible foreigners who give heed to them.

The American dollar is always backed by 40 per cent in gold, which is a considerably higher coverage than most countries require. At present the money in circulation amounts to about $5,450,000,000. The ratio of monetary gold to currency outstanding is about 78 to 100. In other words, the gold supply behind the national currency is nearly twice as great as is required by law.

Gold has been moving abroad recently because of the delay of Congress in balancing the budget. Passage of the tax bill by the Senate may be expected to halt that movement. Speculators can no longer pretend that there is a possibility of Uncle Sam suspending the gold standard. But even if the drain of gold should continue for a time, it would not imply disastrous results. The loss of as much as $1,000,000,000 in gold would still leave this country sufficient to maintain far more currency than is now in circulation.

A few months ago it was necessary to maintain large stocks of gold behind the Federal Reserve notes because commercial paper was not available for use as collateral. But since Congress passed the Glass-Steagall act Government bonds may be used as collateral for Federal Reserve currency. The result is to make available a large volume of gold that could be withdrawn without impairing the American credit structure.

There are no indications that a large volume of gold will move abroad when once the budget is balanced. Once Congress has set the Government's house in order even dubious foreigners will not believe that the dollar is unsound. Then the United States can proceed to use its enormous stock of monetary gold for credit expansion in this country. The very fact that the Federal Reserve system has nearly twice as much gold as is required by law to cover its notes in circulation should be an important factor in restoring confidence to skeptical Americans as well as foreigners.

ECONOMY PLUS EQUITY.

The economy ax wielded by the special Senate committee falls heavily upon Government employes. As it reached the Senate the economy bill calls for $238,000,000 in savings, of which $172,000,000 would come from the pockets of Federal workers, compared with $66,000,000 from all other sources. It is almost incredible that the Senate committee should find Federal salaries such a fertile field for economy while trimming other governmental expenditures so slightly.

Without question the proposed cut of 10 per cent in all Government salaries, together with the reduction of annual leave to 15 days and the elimination of overtime pay, is the most drastic economy measure yet advocated, so far as Federal and District employes are concerned. Either the original plan of the House economy committee, which would have applied an 11 per cent cut to salaries above $1,000, or President Hoover's furlough arrangement, which would have put the five-day week into effect, would be preferable to the recommendations before the Senate. More careful consideration should be given to these alternative plans before the Senate program is definitely shaped.

Inasmuch as the House passed a bill cutting all salaries above $2,500, some sacrifice on the part of Government workers may be anticipated. Whatever action is taken, however, should be regarded as an emergency measure, and should protect the employes against undue hardships. The Senate bill disregards capacity to contribute to the Government's distress call. It would exact 10 per cent from large and small salaries alike, in spite of the fact that all other levies upon income are graduated so as to exempt small salaries and to bear heavily upon the larger ones. Employes receiving less than $1,000 would be seriously handicapped if their compensation should be reduced 10 per cent. Congressmen, receiving $10,000 per year, together with liberal allowances for travel and secretarial help, could get along with more than a 10 per cent reduction.

The Senate amendment attempts to limit the reduced pay to one year. But there is danger that Congress would find excuse for continuing the lower rates in effect beyond the emergency period. In this respect President Hoover's furlough plan works out much better, since it preserves the basic rate of pay and merely shortens the working period for the duration of the emergency.

Of still greater importance than the graduation of pay cuts and the maintenance of basic rates is the problem of equitably distributing whatever sacrifice is required among all employes on the Government's payrolls. As the appropriation bills now stand they carry threats of greater unemployment. It would be inexcusable for Congress to turn Government workers out of their jobs in these critical times. The Senate committee makes a gesture against the abolition of jobs by providing that where funds for salaries are insufficient, employes shall be furloughed without pay rather than dismissed. But it is the duty of Congress to see that funds to meet the payrolls of the various departments are not deficient. Surely Congress would not be so negligent as to slash salaries and then to superimpose furloughs upon the reduced pay scales.

What Government workers fear most of all is the loss of their jobs. Most of them have taken for granted that they would have positions so long as their work is satisfactory, and consequently have lived up to the limits of their income. To be laid off under such circumstances would mean severe hardships.

Congress ought to face this problem from the human as well as the economy viewpoint. Let the reduced remuneration be temporary. Let it be graduated according to ability to absorb the loss, and let no additions be made to the ranks of the unemployed on the theory that that is governmental economy.

THREE NEW GOVERNMENTS.

Three great powers—France, Japan, and Germany—are inaugurating simultaneous turnovers in government. It is a remarkable coincidence that these nations should all experience important shifts in political sentiment at the same time, though, even in the case of France and Germany, the changes bear no direct connection. Foreign policies, however, in each instance, are largely responsible for the present situation.

The acceptance of Chancellor Bruening's resignation by President Hindenburg and the formation of a cabinet by Franz von Papen can only be considered as a temporary palliative to tide over the eventualities of the Lausanne conference. The very fact that the Hitlerites are willing to accept for the moment a "national concentration" cabinet is evidence that they consider its life ephemeral. They have rejected offers to join in the formation of a coalition government, hoping to achieve complete control at the forthcoming Reichstag elections.

The guarded conciliatory sentiments expressed by M. Herriot, who will guide the destinies of the new French government, will not be expanded in view of the imminence of control by the militaristic Nazis. The well-known attitude of the Hitlerites with regard to treaties and reparations still further dooms whatever hopes were growing for a better understanding at Lausanne. The Hitlerites for the moment are content to have forced from the von Papen regime the promise of general elections, lifting of the ban on the brown shirt "army," and freedom to resume their political propaganda. Furthermore the Nazis are well pleased to be relieved of any responsibility in connection with the Lausanne negotiations. Their absence from the conference, with the acknowledged probability that they will be in power within the next few months, make it highly improbable that worth-while agreements will be reached.

Japan's new coalition government is in almost as precarious a position as that in Germany, facing also the rising power of the military Facists, though the Japanese party, along with its opposition to parliamentary government, also advocates revolutionary socialist principles that are somewhat incongruous. The Diet has convened in Tokyo to face consideration of important financial measures, including a new war bill for Manchurian operations amounting to $65,000,000. The second conquest of Manchuria in support of the Pu-Yi government is proving a heavy and unexpected burden. Recent operations in the north have so encroached upon the Russian sphere of influence that there is danger of a clash with the Soviet.

In view of the liquidation that has resulted from congressional impotence, the special Senate committee might find it worth while to investigate the bears in the Senate.

The "forgotten man" is probably that mythical creature who once obtained a fat income by clipping coupons.

THE PHILIPPINE BUDGET BALANCED

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

Within a week of his arrival in Manila two months ago Governor General Theodore Roosevelt found that the income of the Philippine government would be appreciably short of the expenditures. The effects of the depression were making themselves more keenly felt. A financial crisis was impending which must be met promptly and successfully.

After consulting with the cabinet and other advisers, he decreed that beginning with himself the salary of all government employes must be immediately slashed by 10 per cent. With the exception of the low-salaried employes, who did not oppose but only asked for time, the response was cordial all along the line. The balancing of the Philippine budget had been assured and the government resumed the even tenor of its way.

The spirit of sacrifice had possessed every one. Offers of salary reductions by more than 10 per cent were made by Filipino officials. The members of the Philippine Commission in Washington cabled their readiness to decrease their pay. One provincial government announced a cut of 15 per cent, but the Province of Marinduque topped them all with a reduction of 50 per cent in salaries.

The Legislature was not in session. But even if it had been, no difficulty would have been encountered. Not a single legislator has sounded a discordant note. The exhibition of self-sacrifice is a happy augury of the future of the Filipino people.

Governor General Roosevelt, in ordering a general 10 per cent salary cut, acted under an act of the Philippine Legislature authorizing him, in case of necessity or emergency, "to reduce the appropriations * * * so as to effect a saving not to exceed 10 per cent of the total sum" provided for in the budget.

Although it would appear that the executive did not have technically the power to reduce salaries, his action was approved by public opinion under a liberal interpretation of the act as a collateral action to effect a saving to equalize income and expenditure. Governor General Roosevelt's course had captured the imagination of the Filipino people.

The budget system was in operation in the Philippines several years before it was adopted by the Federal Government. A sales tax is in effect, being administered successfully and found to be an equitable method of taxation.

It is a source of genuine satisfaction to all that in times of depression like these the Philippine government has been kept financially on an even keel.

Speaker Garner Knows His Congressmen. —Detroit News.

POST HASTE.

Put the sign Revenue Bill's private office: "In conference—not to be disturbed."

The Senate resents executive prodding, but it did a good week's work on Tuesday after the President's call.

According to engineering estimates Speaker Garner's pork bill is nine billions short of providing enough postoffices to put a million men to work.

If living expenses have declined 20 per cent the Senate feels it is being generous to Federal workers in only taking 10 per cent away from them.

One brief depression remedy suggested is to cheer up, shut up and put up.

The only bonus our veteran visitors get this year is to see the spring foliage in Washington at its best.

If a London conference seriously considers improvement and stabilization of commodity prices it will decide that the only effective action is a resumption of trade; and the way to resume is to resume.

Superlative simile: As futile as a stop-gap Von Papen cabinet and a Lausanne session before a Hitler government in Germany.

The Garner demand for a quarter-cent gasoline tax with which to salt his pork is smothered by a 300 per cent boost on benzine buggy juice in the tax bill.

A couple of the Omaha balloons were blown over the Canadian line, which proved that the wind was blowing in a northerly direction.

Fortunately for the United States Europe can withdraw all the gold she has on deposit here without unbalancing the dollar or stopping the balancing of the budget.

The only practical way to put the unemployed back to work is to revive industrial activity. To provide jobs for them on Federal projects would require appropriations of at least twenty billions and take five years to get going.

A nonpartisan movement has been started by business men to chart the records of all congressmen so that voters can determine the value of their services. The score board should have been set up six months ago.

Three governments start the summer with new governments, but what's in a name? Japan's Fascists are suspiciously Communistic, Germany's National Socialists are Hitler's reactionary militarists, and France's radical Socialists are Liberals who decline to play with the Socialists. Now that's clear.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CI PIGEONS.

I watched them from the windows, common pigeons in a flock,
Who make their nests in nooks of stone which line a city block,
And I wondered, with the country fresh and green not far away,
Why there among the haunts of trade those birds prefer to stay.

No blade of grass is left them and no warm, fresh earth to tread!
Today the sun is shining and blue skies are overhead,
But the city pigeons linger in cathedral aisles of gloom
And seem to be contented where no tree comes into bloom.

It would seem that birds of freedom would not linger in the town,
Where all is cold and harsh and grim and men rush up and down,
But winter comes to woodland and snow the valley fills,
And gentle folks in buildings tall strew crumbs on window sills.

For as I watched and pondered I saw across the way
A woman place some bits of bread upon the granite gray,
And all the pigeons knew her and knew the meal was good,
And why they choose to stay in town I think I understood.

Heresy Is Any Form of Progress That Threatens Feathered Nests

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICANS, like other proud and successful breeds, consider themselves superior to all other races.

They respect the dark-skinned natives of Hawaii, for instance, as little as Rome in her prime respected the natives of her captured provinces.

This being true, it is reasonable to assume that devout and cultured people of this Christian land would be indignant and incredulous if a new god should appear in Honolulu. And some of them, if not all, would think it their duty to suppress the new religion if it began to wean good Americans from the faith of their fathers.

That was the way Pliny felt about Christianity.

Christ had been dead such a little while that people yet living could remember seeing Him in the flesh, but already the new faith had become a menace to the established order and the temples of the old Roman gods were deserted.

Pliny was worried about it and wrote to the Emperor Trajan for advice.

He had been doing his best to exterminate the heretics. When the accused were brought before him, he asked them if they were Christians. If thy confessed, he asked them twice more. If they still answered in the affirmative, he ordered them to be executed—for, said he, whatever their creed, they deserved "chastisement" for being so obstinate.

He found them guilty of no wicked deeds. In fact, they seemed to do nothing worse than meet on a certain fixed day before it was light, sing a chant to Christ "as to a god," and bind themselves by oath, "not to commit any fraud, theft or adultery, never to falsify their word nor deny a trust."

Pliny even went so far as to torture "two females called deaconesses," but still found them guilty of "nothing but depraved and excessive superstition."

That was bad enough to merit death, however, for heresy threatened the foundation of the state.

Don't misjudge Pliny. He and his kind were the upper class of a great civilization—the educated, the cultured, who controlled politics, finance and religion. And the Christians they persecuted were, for the most part, common people—nobodies—trash.

And now the greatest of nations is a Christian land and one day of the week is set apart by law for the worship of Christ.

The moral is that the "best people" usually are wrong. They oppose new and better ways because change threatens their present advantages. If progress seems heresy, it is because the present system pays you a profit.

Franking Scandal.

Detroit News.

The folks back home should find a way to make known to their Congressmen their indignation over the abuse of the franking system. The Postoffice Department last year fell short of paying its way by approximately $150,000,000. How large a part of that was the result of members of Congress mailing postage-free about 33,000,000 pieces of mail matter? What part of those 33,000,000 pieces was unsought by their recipients, unappreciated, unread and totally wasted?

Of late a Michigan Congressman sent out his photograph to newspapers in his district. The envelope, marked with his signature and the stern warning "penalty for private use to avoid payment of postage, $300," bore no postage stamp. It would be a startling revelation to the folks who are asked to bear the burden of higher postal rates, to get the figures as to the tons of absolutely useless bunk franked through the mails by members of Congress during this campaign year.

Unhappy Congressmen.

Los Angeles Times.

Congress has been lashed with scorpion whips of bitter criticism until the feelings of the average congressman must have grown callous.

But it might be said in common justice and candor that he gets very little inspiration from his constituents or the public at large to grow in stature to the proportions of a statesman—working for the good of the country, without fear or favor or selfish interest.

The lot of the congressman since the beginning of the depression has been an unhappy one. Since the effort began to find a way of balancing the national budget the average congressman has been a figure of misery, cowering under a veritable rainstorm of protests, demands, yells of rage and frantic cries of panic. Most of which has been characterized by human selfishness.

Hoover and Bond Issues.

Los Angeles Times.

In a letter so lucid and so simple that it should be completely convincing to those of open mind President Hoover has knocked the props completely from under the structure erected by those seeking huge government bond issues for various grandiose and fanciful schemes, and has shown how flimsy and shabby they really are. With patient care, and with sympathetic understanding for the plight of the unemployed whom the bondateers profess to be undertaking to help the President demonstrates that prosperity cannot be brought back by squandering the taxpayers' money, but that its return can be aided by judicious assistance to self-liquidating, productive enterprise.

Getting Sick of Farce.

Hartford Courant.

Arthur Krock declares that many congressmen are afraid to go home and face their constituents. The country, evidently, is not as grateful as it ought to be for the entertainment that Congress has provided.

Not Constructive.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Senator Borah announces his refusal to serve as a delegate in the Republican National Convention, to be held next month. His voice and influence are to be denied to the party which for many rolling years has kept him in the public service.

Borah will be remembered—if at all—in the annals of political history as the great objector of his time. His constructive accomplishments do not bulk largely in the structure of our political scheme. But he may be counted always to be against the incumbent administration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Pennsylvania Reader Appeals for Overthrow of Waste and Privilege.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Much astonishment and comment has been aroused by the news that even our veteran representative, Adam Wyant, has joined that group of rabbleers in Congress who have framed, under the guise of "relief," a piece of political quackery which President Hoover has justly termed the greatest "pork barrel" in history.

If Mr. Wyant possesses a fraction of the shrewdness that he is credited with, he probably has no expectation that such a proposal will be enacted into law. He must also realize that even if enacted into law, it would have to be abandoned, for the simple reason that the Government's credit could not meet the situation at this time.

It is most pathetic that so many illusions pertaining to Government work, employment, bonuses, &c., are circulated among the people, for it is they who must finally pay the penalty for such folly. While they have been following the roads that lead to cold, hunger and misery, their leaders in labor unions, fraternal organizations and in Congress have been foolishly catering to selfish motives instead of trying to lead them wisely.

Twelve years ago economists of world-wide note tried to impress these leaders with the fact that our prosperity at the time was only borrowed; that our national wealth, although "written up," had not really increased, as many believed, as a result of the war, and that we would soon have to pay the fiddler.

For instance, said Prof. Achille Villate, of Paris, in 1920: "The impoverishment of the impoverished nations is worse than it appears. The enrichment of others in large part is only appearance. They will not only be unable to recover quickly their loans, but will also be unable to dispose of their excess of goods.

"The most important consequence of the war must, therefore, be an inevitable reduction for all the nations, during a period, of their people's standard of living, perhaps even below the prewar standard.

"We are under necessity for making savings out of our present production in order to compensate for assets consumed without replacement during the war."

Now consider the prophetic statement, made in 1921, of Walter Renton Ingalls, noted engineer and economist. Said Mr. Ingalls: "The quantitative theory of money is one of the things that is close to the root of our economic troubles, for it contributes to the popular illusion that in some way the wealth and income of the United States were increased as a result of the war. * * * The entertainment of this illusion is one of the explanations for the profligacy in living that has characterized us in recent years, and for the specter of economic disaster that is even now stalking around to plague us."

The same unwillingness to face facts, the same incompetent and heedless leadership which ignored these warnings and preferred to plunge the country into an abyss of debt and financial chicanery, should not now be permitted to impede what must at best be a slow and painful return to better conditions.

Economic tinkering such as price "stabilizing," subsidies, debentures, pension or bonus appropriations of enormous magnitude, and all similar props and sops to special groups should be abandoned forthwith. Duty of Government is to prevent rather than encourage this aggrandizement and class legislation, which may lead to serious trouble.

Senseless and arbitrary restrictions imposed upon the Government or public, which interfere with normal employment or honest business transactions should not be merely held in abeyance or temporized with, but wiped off the slate.

Debts must be reduced out of either savings or earnings. Where this is not possible, forced liquidations are the only alternative, and this should apply to large organizations as well as small. Individuals and small business men who have been paddling their own canoes for the past two years can not be expected to furnish the means with which overextended corporations may meet their obligations. Banks, public or private, which indulge in such financing should be prepared for the consequences. It would seem better to reserve more capital for new enterprises rather than waste it in palliatives and stimulants for the old.

Let our citizens be not deceived; instead of seeing prosperity, we are destined to see the people of this generation dying in debt, and their children enduring a life of servitude and privation, the words "liberty" and "independence" will have become only by-words for wisecrackers, unless we bestir ourselves as never before to cast down the superstructure of waste and privilege that viciously clings to our city, State and national governments. R. E. NEWELL.

Brooklyn Reader Asks Congress to Adopt Syllogisms.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The country is sickened with the redundancy of speeches in Congress and the contrasting paucity of thought.

May I suggest that the members of Congress pass a self-denying ordinance, and from now on, instead of making speeches, only use syllogisms, with major premise, minor premise and conclusion? Words would be saved, and the falsity of an argument speedily detected either in the major or the minor premises.

Unfortunately, however, there is one obstacle to the carrying out of my suggestion, and that is that probably most of the members of Congress are utterly ignorant of the nature of a syllogism. JOSEPH A. DEWE.

Will Use Queen's Card Case In Wedding Ceremony.

Miss Lillian Emerson, whose marriage to Mr. William Wight, Harts, jr., will take place on June 20, in St. Bartholomew's Church in New York, has received a wedding gift of great interest. How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Types of Creams.

WHEN you wish a cream and are purchasing one, what do you ask for? One of the most difficult things a saleslgirl has to contend with is the request for "a face cream." I've talked with hundreds of saleslgirls. I've stood behind store counters, listening to customers' requests and complaints. I've talked with thousands of women and had letters from hundreds of thousands, and therefore know that in spite of the fact that cosmetic manufacturers are carrying on intensive educational campaigns and women are becoming more and more sophisticated in the ways and means of beauty lore, there is still a question in the minds of a great many women as to just what the distinction is between various types of creams.

Your own needs should guide you in choosing the right preparation. When you have determined what you need and want, ask specifically for the type of beauty aid you wish. This beauty business is so highly specialized and perfected that you can get your money's and beauty's worth.

Cleansing, Nourishing, Finishing Creams.

There are three major classes into which creams fall. There are creams for cleansing purposes, creams for lubricating or nourishing the skin and creams which serve as a base for make-up.

The majority of cleansing creams are quite transparent, soft in consistency, and when applied to the skin liquefy completely. The delicate oils in this type of cream have a low melting point and this makes them valuable for cleansing purposes, as the oils seep into the pores and dislodge make-up, dust and grime. These creams are usually called "cleansing creams."

The name "cold cream" usually applies to creams of the cleansing variety. Cold cream is more solid looking than cleansing cream (not transparent). It is usually whiter and heavier. When applied it retains its color and consistency although some so-called "cold creams" melt away after they are massaged over the skin for a few minutes. The reason so much confusion surrounds the name "cold cream" is the fact that too many women call every type of cream by that name.

A cleansing cream should be used only for cleansing purposes. For soothing, softening or lubricating the skin a cream of the richer, heavier variety should be chosen. Creams compounded for this purpose contain ingredients and rich oils that counteract the drying effect of exposure and overcome chapping. These creams are called "nourishing, massage, molding, tissue building, tissue cream, skinfood." Don't let the different names mislead or confuse you.

Creams which are used as a base for make-up are called "finishing cream, vanishing cream, powder base, &c." They are usually of light, fluffy consistency and a tiny bit is all that is necessary to use. Women whose skins are dry should use this type of cream before going outdoors, to protect the skin. The secret of applying this type of cream correctly is to use it sparingly (unless otherwise directed). If you find a so-called vanishing cream drying, change to a somewhat richer finishing cream. Some vanishing creams are intended for the oily type of skin, but as a rule my advice to women with oily skins is to use a lotion as a powder base. Why add more oil or cream to a skin already oily?

There are bleach creams and pore creams and various other creams and unguents, but the three big classifications made above are the most important.

If you are interested in the "basic treatment" that every woman should find helpful, send for my bulletin called "Three Essentials for Facial Loveliness." Don't forget your self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A dress on the diagonal, with chic bow incrusted right into the bodice, and a coat likewise on the diagonal, with brown astrakhan collar. (Courtesy of the Maison Heim, Paris.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—Clothes don't make the man—oh, far from it! But clothes can almost unmake him! The man is there, worthwhile or worthless—and what he wears, where he wears it, how he wears it, is an indication of his cultural, sociological and esthetic sense of responsibility. If you do not dress well, do not show taste and the artistic in what you wear, then you have not taste and are not artistic. No amount of reasoning, or ultra intelligence—anything else can alter this.

All right, why should one?

Well, because it is a demand of civilization, a fundamental need, an artistic and cultural standard. Because it is a gracious, pleasing thing to do, for yourself and for every one else. And because wearing clothes is something that has to be done anyhow, which can as easily be done tastefully and artistically as ungracefully. So there now—are those reasons enough? Viola!

ANOTHER HINT

Speaking of pumice, s-s-s-s-sh, occasionally dip your toothbrush into this powdered pumice, but don't scrub your teeth too hard with it or you will scratch and mar the enamel. And oh, yes, while I am on the subject of teeth, here is a secret that no dentist will thank me for giving you, which was told me by a lovely lady who used to be at the court of the Romanoffs. Keep a tiny glassful of a saturated solution of table salt in the bathroom, and after you have brushed the teeth with the tooth powder you prefer and rinsed them, brush them again with your toothbrush dipped in this solution. It hardens the gums and is an antiseptic that no pyorrhea or any other mouth germs will long resist!

And now we will just have to break down and confess that this week's leaflet is one which we just had to offer by popular request! Boudoir dolls to make during vacation! In an illustrated leaflet for which you may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post right now. There is Naughty Lady in her adorable black lace pyjamas, and a lovely Moorish lady, a modernistic Russian doll, the Hindu princess, and Dahray's own favorite doll dressed in the costume of the Russian peasantry. You have only to follow our careful directions to create one or more of these gorgeous boudoir dolls and bring the breath of their fragrance into a corner of some gentle lady's boudoir or some man's studio.

Heim chic again—this time expressed in woolen material, and showing a bow incrusted on the bodice—not to mention a "volant" around the hips to carry out the diagonal line. The same diagonal is cleverly shown in the clear blue coat with its brown astrakhan collar — another Heim model, with more Heim chic!

It has just occurred to me that everyone might possibly not know what a capeline is! After all, 'tis a hat, and merely a beeeeeeeg hat—but the world and her sister doesn't have to know that this technical name—capeline, means that! Thought I would just tell you.

PLANS A NEW ENGLAND BAKED-FISH LOAF.

HOW these days turn back the years! Why is it that spring will ever fill us with the ecstasy of youth? Probably because all the world has been reborn and we, as an integral part of the world, are reborn with it. At this moment I'm remembering the clean fragrance of a New England spring countryside and feeling the starched lengths of the season's first blue-checked ginghams about my knees. In walking through pastures of yellow and white daisies and the peculiar pungency of broken fern and break fills my nostrils. All because a certain fish loaf used to be made especially in the springtime, up there for some unaccountable reason, and because just now I'd so dearly love to wander again in the New England meadows, as carefree, as filled with spring and its ecstasy, and as hungry for fish loaf on returning home at evening. And who wouldn't? It's what spring does to all of us—but here's our menue for tomorrow:

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Scalloped Shad Roe
Mashed Potatoes

1 cupful fish stock
2 cupfuls breadcrumbs, soft
¼ cupful butter
2 eggs, beaten separately
3 teaspoons parsley, finely minced
Lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste

Skin and bone fish. Pound to a pulp or run through the finest knife of food chopper. Soak the bread in the milk and stock and cook until mixture leaves the sides of pan, stirring occasionally. Mix with the fish and add the butter and beaten eggs. Add seasonings and parsley. Shape into loaf, cover with crumbs, sprinkle with oil and bake in hot oven for 30 minutes. May be baked in individual ramekins, if desired Serve with any sauce preferred.

Tomatoes a la Creole.

6 small tomatoes
1 medium-sized onion, chopped fine.
3 teaspoonfuls flour

1½ tablespoonfuls butter
½ cupful cream
Salt and pepper to taste

Dip tomatoes in scalding water, remove skins and place in a greased baking dish. Cover the tomatoes with the onion and pepper, dot with small pieces of butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake in a moderate oven from 25 to 30 minutes. Remove the tomatoes and keep them warm. Blend together the butter and flour and add to the liquid in the dish. Add the cream and cook until thick. Season with salt and pepper. Place the tomatoes on buttered toast, pour sauce over and serve at once.

Lemon Cream.

1 tablespoonful granulated gelatin
2 tablespoonfuls boiling water
½ cupful sugar (scant)
3 egg yolks
Juice of one lemon
Rind of one-half lemon
3 egg whites, beaten stiff

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Beat until sugar and egg will not separate when allowed to stand a few minutes. Add lemon juice and rind and the gelatin quickly dissolved in the boiling water. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and place in moistened mold or sherbet glasses. Chill before serving.

Orange Shortcake.

2 cupfuls flour
¼ cupful butter
4 teaspoonfuls salt
2-3 cupful milk
2 cupfuls sliced oranges
1-3 cupful sugar

Combine oranges and sugar and chill. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in the butter with knife. Add the milk slowly, mixing in with knife. When a soft dough is formed, divide into six portions and roll out each portion until about two-thirds of an inch in thickness. Bake in a moderate oven for twelve minutes. Split each shortcake and add the orange mixture. Replace tops and garnish with orange segments.

It really doesn't matter, for in our new folder you will find many suggestions for easily prepared, appropriate beverages—all equally delicious.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IS talk going to run away with the ether? That was the question put by a reader the other day who declared that every time he turned on his radio he was greeted with talk about everything under the sun, but seldom about anything which really interested him. The reader censured the broadcasters particularly for allowing so much random talk during the dinner hour.

"When I return to my home from a hard day in the office," he continued, "I have heard all the talk I want to hear. As soon as I am comfortably settled I turn to The Post radio columns to learn what is on the air. And usually it is talk. Sometimes we are fortunate enough to have a full half hour of dinner music, but it is unusual to have the full period uninterrupted by some chatter or palaver about something that is of interest to not more than 1 per cent of the entire listening audience. My wife informs me that the early daytime hours are even worse. I hear a great deal of conversation about overcommercialization of the radio and so forth, and while I agree, the amount of talk we have to listen to is just as bad.

"I do not mean that speeches have no place on the air. Far from it. I have benefited greatly from any number of them. The networks render an invaluable public service in presenting nationally and internationally known personalities. But it does seem that the local broadcasters should use more judgment—allowing speakers to go on over their stations only if the subject under discussion has real merit and is of widespread interest."

THE amount of air oratory has increased to such an extent that it is comparatively safe to make the statement that at least 45 per cent of the time the average radio station is on the air it is occupied by talk of some description.

The managers of the medium and low powered radio stations all over the country are just as worried about this situation as the above reader, who asks "why they can't see the light." The key stations of the networks are in a position to turn down a talk which they feel would not sufficiently interest its audience with the argument that the time involved is too valuable to render that particular service to a limited group.

Good will is the most valuable asset of a broadcaster. Without it all his millions of dollars' worth of transmitters, studios, &c., have no value. And on this talk problem the broadcasters trying to create good will are caught in a web. The precedent has been set. John Jones will come in and want to talk about a certain civic enterprise. Such and such a person had fifteen minutes for the same type of talk last week, therefore John Jones must have it. Mary Black will advise the studios that she would like to have a half hour to broadcast a speech at her woman's club. Another woman's club had a half hour for the address of its principal speaker a few days ago. And so it goes.

In putting these speakers on the broadcaster is antagonizing practically all the remainder of the listening audience. But if he refused all such requests he would eventually antagonize almost all his audience anyhow, because at some time or other practically every person is interested in having some particular club or event he is involved in broadcast.

The broadcasters, however, are rapidly arriving at the place where they must take a stand and any number of listeners all over the country are hoping the decision will be to put fewer speakers on the air.

GRADUATION exercises at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., the culmination of "June Week" at the training establishment of the American Navy, will be heard over WMAL from 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. today. There will be an address by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, after which Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, is expected to hand out the diplomas. Stanley Bell will describe the scene for the entire Columbia network.

An arrangement for two cornets of Godfrey's "Friendly Rivals" will be played by Birley Gardner and Robert Lewis during the broadcast of the U. S. Navy Band program over WRC at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. The band, directed by Lieut. Charles Benter, will play the overture to Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman," "Song of the Old Time Dance," and introductions to acts 2 and 3 of Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna."

America's tribute to Sir Edward Elgar, music laureate of the British Empire, will be paid during a musical program heard over the WJZ network today, the composer's seventy-fifth birthday.

A symphony orchestra, directed by Erno Rapee, will play six of Elgar's best known works in a broadcast beginning at 10:15 p. m. The familiar "Salut D'Amour" will open the program, followed by "Sea Pictures," never before presented in this country; "Serenade Lyrique," "Empire March," "In London Town;" "Land of Hope and Glory" and "Pomp and Circumstance."

TOMORROW night Mr. Rapee will start a new series of weekly programs over WRC—a musical tour of the world. The first country to be visited musically will be Spain, and the program title is "Erno Rapee in Madrid." On subsequent Fridays listeners will be taken to other countries, with music typical of each land.

A large orchestra will be used, as well as instrumental and vocal soloists, and a complete musical picture of each country will be given, including everything from folk songs to grand opera, from simple melodies to symphonies. Each program will last an hour.

A massed chorus of more than 1,000 male voices, gathered in Madison, Wis., for the Twentieth Biennial Saengerfest of the Norwegian Singers Association of America, will present a special program over WRC at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

The broadcast will be carried by short wave to Germany, Norway and Sweden. Gov. Philip La Follette, of Wisconsin, will extend greetings in English, German and Norwegian.

A dramatization of "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented by the Radio Guild players tomorrow afternoon (WRC, 3:15 o'clock).

THE annual luncheon of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs will be broadcast for an hour this afternoon (WRC, 2:15 o'clock). The principal address will be delivered by Senator William Bulow, of South Dakota.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE SCURVY VITAMIN.

"ECONOMIC conditions have always had an effect on the incidence of scurvy and it is quite possible, if not probable, that the economic depression in this country and abroad may entail an increase in latent and manifest scurvy in adults, as well as in infants." This statement is quoted from an article by Dr. A. F. Hess, an authority in vitamin C and scurvy.

It is true that up to 1932 the prevailing depression had had no effect on health. It was predicted several months ago that should present conditions continue for many months or years longer, then the harmful effects on health will begin to be apparent. Not until the state of nutrition of a considerable part of the people is lowered below a certain level are the effects manifested. That level has not been reached, but it may be before the new year arrives.

Scurvy will be one of the earlier evidences that it is being approached. This disease results from a deficiency of fresh foods. In the old days it developed whenever a group had to live for several weeks or months on canned foods. Now the canners know how to can without destroying antiscorbutic qualities of the foods. The secret consists in using good articles, removing them from the air as quickly as possible, getting rid of much of the oxygen in the food itself by using gases and brines to drive it out, drying or sterilizing the food—one or both—quickly, and then sealing well.

The only vitamin in milk that is lessened by pasteurizing is that which protects against scurvy. When this process is properly done the milk retains three-fourth of its antiscorbutic vitamins. Milk powder is fairly rich in this protective substance, if it has been quickly heated and dried while protected against the air and oxygen. On the other hand, raw milk that is rather old, that has been shipped some distance, that has been "sloshed" around considerably, has lost its vitamin C.

If we apply the food information that has been gained, mostly since the World War, we may be able to ward off the trend toward scurvy, which appears to head this way. Dr. Hess tells us of discoveries that may be of still further assistance to us. There is some evidence that vitamin C can be extracted and fed separately. Thus, we may be able to get enough of it without using the more expensive fresh foods. An even more important discovery promises. It seems possible, at least, that this vitamin may be manufactured.

A substance, called narcotin, is found in the poppy, along with morphine. It has some of the sedative properties of that drug. It has also been found in cabbage, potatoes, tomatoes, oranges, and in at least one animal organ. When narcotin, cabbage, and potatoes, and other vegetables are radiated, it is converted into a substance which protects against scurvy and the neuralgias of the beriberi type. This discovery should open the way for an artificial supply of this vitamin and, when it gets into quantity production, it should be cheap.

However, we can scarcely expect a cheap supply of manufactured antiscorbutic substances in time for next winter's needs.

SACCHARINE.

M. E. C. writes:

1. Is saccharine injurious to the normally healthy person?

2. What is the chemical reaction of saccharine on food?

REPLY.

1. Not in the quantities in which men use it to sweeten coffee. President Roosevelt had one of his wars over this question.

2. There is none. It supplies a sweet taste and that is all.

A FURRY TONGUE.

C. P. writes: I am 60 years old. I always have furred tongue. What is the cause and cure?

REPLY.

Among the causes are: Sleeping with the mouth open, constipation, belching, and other manifestations of reverse peristalsis, difficult digestion during the night. The cause should be removed if possible Among other treatments are: Scraping the tongue with a dull edge, such as that of a case knife, and chewing gum.

VARICOSE VEINS.

J. D. B. writes: I am a man of 24 years and am a victim of varicose veins in the legs. Can this condition be cured?

REPLY.

Yes.

The best cure seems to be operation by the injection method. Operation for removal has many advocates. Some cases do very well when they wear elastic stockings.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I HAVE three newly planted evergreens which are sending out in each case one long side branch, which if permitted to grow will make the trees unshapely. When can I remove these branches and will such pruning undermine the health of the trees? Each tree is about 4 feet high.

MRS. CHARLES F. A.

If it is necessary to cut back the leaders of evergreen trees, the work should be done in late June when the wood is soft, green and watery. Leave at least an inch to give an opportunity for the setting of a new bud. Do not cut the tops of evergreens planted in a hedge until they reach the desired height.

I have a terrace which is made of irregular stones on top and with broad steps leading to my garden. I am anxious to place potted blooming plants on the edges of the steps and also at irregular intervals about the top of the terrace. Such plants will have every care and will receive plenty of sunshine. Please give me a list of plants suitable for such use. I would like, if possible, to have annuals, as they are not apt to be expensive.

MRS. THOMAS D. F.

The following plants are well suited for such use, but they must receive more or less frequent applications of plant food and be watered faithfully throughout the summer: Petunias, salpiglossis, Drummond's phlox, annual larkspur, mignonette and heliotrope.

I have three plants that are covered with plant lice. What do you suggest for me to do to get rid of these pests? HANNAH D. J.

Plants with lice on them should be sprayed with a nicotine preparation as soon as they become infested. Your dealer will be able to supply you with a nicotine spray.

I have a rose plot where the plants are rather far apart. For this reason I want to plant some low-growing little plants in the same place. Are there any plants which will not absorb too much nourishment from the soil? ELSA R.

Petunias, alyssums and forget-me-nots make good fillers for rose beds because they do not draw much nourishment from the soil.

I want two vines for a shady arbor in my garden. Can you please suggest two which tolerate shade?

MRS. HERMAN S.

Adlumia (Allegheny vine) and hedera (English ivy) will grow in a total absence of direct sun; in fact, they revel in such locations. Lonicera (honeysuckle), vitis (grape species) and parthenocissus (Japanese ivy) grow in shade with a little sun.

How deep must I plant lilies which are listed as stem rooters?

WILLIAM D. S.

Lilies which produce stem roots should be set from 8 to 10 inches deep.

The foliage of my Easter lily (in a pot in my cellar) is now entirely dry. I watered it for five weeks after it ceased blooming. When may I plant it in my yard? Must it be brought inside in the fall before frost?

MRS. TOLL E. G.

Plant Easter lily bulb at once, choosing a sunny place and keep it well watered. It will bloom in late summer. Lift the bulb and store it in your cellar in the winter and replant it in the spring.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:45 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 6:40 p. m.

A consistently fortunate day is augured for June 2, and even fumblers and novices may expect success from their efforts. Young people celebrating this birth date may anticipate favorable results from important school examinations or competitive athletic sports and games. Romantic episodes will be found lurking in queer places.

Children born on this June 2 will be undemonstrative and unobtrusive little individuals. Sincerity will be the dominant note in their character, and frankness will be stamped on their faces. They will keep their own counsel, and will never tattle on a friend. They will possess both passion and feeling, which they will endeavor to keep well hidden.

You, if born on June 2, have the courage nothing can intimidate, the trust that never loses faith, a sweetness which can not be turned to bitterness. You are passionately fond of beauty, but you seldom allow your feelings any outlet of expression—your heart may be full, but your face is a mask. Your imagination takes you up in the clouds, but there is a grain of practicability in your make-up which enables you to descend from your dizzy heights and face the material present. You tackle your work with verve and originality; hating half-measures, you are inclined to overdo yourself.

You are immune to the "prickles of perpetual vexation," and are keenly aware that with a touch of humor and a little imagination, worries and grievances can be met with a jest. You have all the charm of a sincere and natural manner, and are usually in great demand in social circles. You are more of a listener than a talker, and possess the gift of attracting speech from others and drawing out ideas.

You are a great lover of home life, and although you delight in adventures and travel, you are always pleased to return to your own fireside and old circle of friends.

Successful people born on June 2: Thomas Hardy, English author.

George H. Corliss, inventor.

George L. Curry, Governor of Oregon.

Nicholas P. Trist, lawyer and diplomat.

And isn't this one full of dash and chic?

Culbertson on Bridge

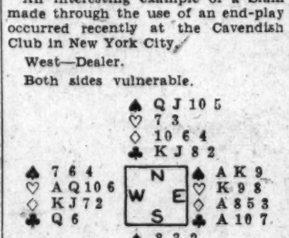
THE END-PLAY.

THE term "end-play," as applied to Contract, describes a situation when a chosen opponent is placed in the lead in order to compel him to make a play which will give the Declarer an extra trick or tricks over those that could be won by direct attack. An understanding of the method of making an end-play, as the situation occurs very frequently, is essential to successful play of hands which require the utilization of the entire strength in order to realize the contract.

An interesting example of a Slam made through the use of an end-play occurred recently at the Cavendish Club in New York City.

West—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
	Pass	Pass	1◇
Pass	2NT	Pass	4NT
Pass	6NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

I shall not analyze the bidding, which, no doubt, was overoptimistic, as the distribution of both the East and West hands did not justify the probability that the entire trick-taking power of the cards, measured by the Rule of Eight, would be realized.

North made what was unquestionably his best Opening lead—the Queen of spades. West won with the Ace in Dummy, and then cashed four diamonds, a finesse being unnecessary, as the Queen dropped on the second round. He then won four hearts, realizing the full-trick-taking strength of the heart suit by a finesse through South's Knave. The spade King was then cashed, and North, who had been compelled to discard one spade and two clubs, was thrown in the lead with a spade, and forced, at the end, to lead away from the minor tenace in clubs, thus permitting the making of the Slam trick. While there was nothing to guide West in placing the club King in the North hand, if North did not hold that card, the contract could not have been made in any event. The end-play afforded the one opportunity to make the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

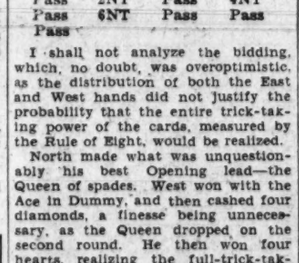
An end-play is a play made in Contract by which a chosen opponent is placed in the lead in order to force him to make a lead which will be favorable to the Declarer.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address him in care of this newspaper, INCLOSING A 2-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Difference of Opinion.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Being a stenographer in a large office, I am always interested when you write of the business girl. Now recently I saw an article where you discussed making dates with the men who work in the same office. It was quite a while ago, but one of the girls (who does not like me) showed it to me. She makes dates. I do not know whether she drinks, pets, &c., on these dates, as I have never been out with her, but I do not approve of going out with the men I meet in business, and have read in other advice columns that under no circumstances should a girl go out with a man she meets in this way. As I heartily agree with this advice, I would like to ask why you think it proper for a girl to date the men who happen to be employed in the same office. STENO.

Well, to start with, we have always found it job enough to stand by our own advice, without being held responsible for the brand of advice, good or bad, dealt out by others! Hence we can not even hope to explain the mystery of why any one should ban any normal human contact for no better reason than that the two persons were employed by the same firm! That is far, far too deep for our simple psychology! We can, of course, see the impropriety if the men happened to be married. Not otherwise. Why? Well, probably because we are, above all, very practical. We know that the average girl meets few men except through business contacts, and that to tell her to ban all men from acquaintance who happened to cross her path during business hours would be as impractical as it is antiquated." The idea started back of the gay 90's, in the horse-car era—when girls who wanted to be secretaries to strange men were considered a bit wild. Later, when everybody's daughter wanted to be a secretary, they began laying down laws for this difficult and headstrong crew, the idea being to at least make it as painful as possible to be a secretary.

Today, if all the girls who are now married to men they met in the "office" were to join hands they could just about circle the globe! And why not? People who work spend two-thirds of their waking hours where they work! It is their whole life in most cases. How utterly absurd to forbid them to meet on equal footing their associates!

The sole exception we make is where the question of discipline occurs. Where a man is in any way in charge he is unwise to veer from the straight course of strict neutrality. Otherwise we consider in the year 1932 it is perfectly permissible and, what is more, right sensible for people who meet through their work to feel free to form friendships when they find among their associates people congenial or inspiring, or even merely welcome and friendly—why not?

Railroad Mystery Trip Taken by 650

Even Engineer Uninformed of Destination on First of New Excursions.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 1 (A.P.).—The "mystery excursion" is railroading's latest innovation designed to fill day coaches with passengers. Even the engineer didn't know where he was going when he pulled out of the Cincinnati station on the Southern Railway's first such mystery excursion, and when he read his sealed orders after crossing the bridge into Kentucky he did not tell.

The excursion proved to be a 100-mile train ride to Lexington, Ky., a 25-mile automobile trip, a chicken dinner, and the ride home—an eleven and one-half hour holiday for $1.75.

Six hundred and fifty adventurers took a chance on the first excursion, and now there are to be others. Meanwhile, other passenger agents in Cincinnati are wondering if this is not an idea.

9 LOCAL STUDENTS GRADUATE AT BLISS

Editor of Nation's Business Tells Class Electrical Trade Universal.

The electrical business is the business of the world, Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business told 180 graduates of the Bliss Electrical School at their commencement exercises last night.

"The young man who masters the technology of electrical engineering very definitely enables himself to project the humanitarian service of Edison, Steinmetz and Westinghouse. It is the opportunity of this generation to further the exploration of the vast potential energy of electrical energy, Thorpe said.

Referring to the increase in the use of electrical energy in home and industrial appliances, he said that, "if lightning has not actually been harnessed, its meaning is becoming clearer because of devoted research," and that you can't stop the thing called progress, but you can keep in harmony with it.

FIRST DANCE SLATED AT WOODLAND BEACH

Summer Social Activities at The Post's Home Project Opens Saturday Night.

The first big social event of the season will be held at Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on South River, in Maryland, Saturday night, when a dance will be given in the community clubhouse on the property.

This big affair is not restricted to property owners or their families and friends, but is open to all who care to take a 32-mile drive to one of Maryland's garden spots and there dance to the strains of an excellent orchestra or stroll around the beach under a June moon.

The admission fee for the dance is nominal and a good time is assured all the couples in attendance. It is easy to reach Woodland Beach over good roads. Take the Defense highway as far as Camp Parole, turning right there onto Maryland State highway No. 2, across South River. Just beyond the bridge turn left into Mayo road, which leads directly to the clubhouse and the dance.

A visit to Woodland Beach will be a revelation to those who have never visited the spot or have not been there since early last summer. Nearly 200 cottages and summer homes dot the development, with others in the course of construction.

Streets and roadways have been improved and the entire layout is one which will appeal to those seeking a place in which to spend vacation week-ends. There is beauty, relaxation, recreation and comfort offered at the Beach.

For those interested in obtaining property there for erection of a cottage, full details of the development may be obtained at the office of The Washington Post any week day or at Woodland Beach on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. There are still available a number of choice locations which will make somebody happy for many summers to come. Terms are reasonable and the Beach offers a bargain which can not be overlooked.

Reunion of Long-Separated Brothers Ended by Gallows

Shreveport, La., June 1 (A.P.).—They hanged E. L. Patterson in the parish prison today for murder and thereby cut short his joy over reunion with a brother after a separation of 50 years.

He and Boris Tolett were convicted of killing Charles Jones, a merchant, in a holdup and they were executed within a few moments of each other.

Last week Jim Patterson, of Tenaha, Tex., saw his brother in prison for the first time since the latter ran away from home half a century ago.

Jim read in the newspapers about a man named E. L. Patterson awaiting the gallows in Shreveport but he had no idea he was his brother. Neighbors thought differently, however, and they persuaded him to come to Shreveport and see. After the reunion in the condemned man's cell Jim Patterson started a movement to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment but the State pardon board refused to recommend that.

"The STRIKE-OUT is only 5% of pitching"
Robert W. Grove

"You must know and work on the weakness of every hitter," says the major league strike-out king of the Athletics. "Fanning a clouter in a pinch makes the crowd roar, but it is not everything in pitching. You must have good control and never lose poise or confidence. You must be at your best with men on bases. And you must keep on pitching until the end of the game. Pitching is no game for anybody unless he has power and nerve. It takes everything."

Gasoline may contain gum which you cannot see but will cost you money later.

No gasoline gives you your money's worth if you pay for it twice. Once at the pump and again in needless repair bills.

Telegram Enters Rail Benefit Case

Promissory Message to Be Used in Action Against Brotherhood.

Hagerstown, Md., June 1 (A.P.).—A telegram which officials contend was sent from Cleveland in 1925 shortly before the calling of the strike of Western Maryland Railroad men and signed by officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Enginemen, is expected to prove valuable in legal action anticipated by the striking brotherhood members against the brotherhood in an effort to collect strike benefits.

The telegram was found recently among the records and was the same one read from the platform at a meeting held at the armory by a representative of the brotherhood. The telegram promised the brotherhood members on the Western Maryland, who were ordered to walk out by the brotherhood officials at Cleveland, that as long as they were without work and as long as there was a cent in the treasury of the brotherhood they would be given benefits.

The Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce interceded in behalf of the men here, and succeeded in having the brotherhood resume payment of benefits. Many, however, are not being paid and are unemployed.

Murder Jury Gets Case of Constable

W. Lacy White Reiterates Self-Defense Claim in Dry Killing.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—A Hanover County jury this afternoon took the case of Constable W. Lacy White, on trial here for the murder of Morris Tarman while attempting a prohibition arrest March 21. Evidence in the case was completed early this afternoon.

The trial was continued today with White resuming the testimony in his own defense. He reiterated his claim that he fired in self-defense. His testimony was followed by that of a number of character witnesses.

White vigorously denied the testimony of five prosecution witnesses who said he fired into Tarman's prostrate body after the latter had been shot down by a bullet fired by Constable J. F. Croner, of Orange County. He said he fired in self-defense only after Tarman had fired twice at him. The accused said one of the bullets grazed his finger.

Governor Defends His Fishery Board

Pollard Replies to Criticism of His Appointment of "Inlanders."

Richmond, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today met the criticism of his latest appointments to the fisheries commission with a vigorous assertion that he was glad to have another opportunity to bring to the State's attention "the most striking failure of our State government to conserve one of the State's greatest assets."

Speaking pointedly of the oyster problems of Tidewater Virginia, the governor said he believed he was fully justified both by precedent and by the caliber of the men appointed to the commission, in his appointment of two up-State men—Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun, and Senator George W. Layman, of Craig—to the commission whose immediate job is to solve the sea food problems of Tidewater Virginia.

The statement issued at the executive offices today was in reply to criticism voiced by Senator William A. Wright, of Tappahannock, who questioned the appointment of two "inlanders" to the commission.

2 Cleared in Death Of Old Gun-Fighter

Coroner's Jury Refuses to Hold Pair Who Shot It Out With Him.

Lexington, N. C., June 1 (A.P.).—The fatal shooting in a gun battle here of Baxter Shemwell, prominent North Carolinian who for 50 years settled his arguments with bullets, was held justifiable by a coroner's jury today and the two men who exchanged shots with him were freed of blame.

The men are J. O. Boaze, automobile dealer, and Dr. F. G. Johnson, dentist, both of Lexington, who, the jury said, acted in self-defense.

No opinion was given as to who fired the fatal shot into Shemwell's abdomen, but Boaze told Chief of Police R. F. Talbert, shortly after the battle yesterday, that he, Boaze, fired the bullet.

Shemwell, a large property holder in this State, died about fourteen hours after the battle, which was staged on a main street here in front of the store of A. L. Sink, father-in-law of Boaze and Johnson.

Effect of U. S. Gasoline Tax on States Estimated

Richmond, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—State Highway Commissioner Henry G. Shirley said today that while the Federal gasoline tax revenue bill is an invasion of a taxation field heretofore reserved to the States, may be bad in principal, it nevertheless makes little practical difference, provided the States receive an equitable proportion of the proceeds.

He said he understood the tax was designed to raise revenue for the regular and special Federal aid funds carried in bills now pending in Congress. Each of these bills, he said, would provide Virginia with approximately $2,000,000.

CAMPAIGN TO SPUR CRAB MARKET SET

Maryland-Virginia-Carolina Drive to Compete With Japan Planned.

Baltimore, June 1 (A.P.).—A plan which will enable the crab packers of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina to can and sell their product at prices which will compare favorably with those on foreign importations of crab meat is being worked out by Swepson Earle, State conservation commissioner. He expects to take the plan up with conservation officials of the two other States.

Earle hopes, to consolidate the packing industry in the three States—the largest crab-taking centers on the Eastern seaboard—and devise a method of packing the crab meat so that it will remain in good condition and yet be placed on the market at a low rate.

At the present time no method of canning crab meat has been devised that will compare with the one used by Japanese packers. As a result of that and of the low labor costs in Japan, about 60 per cent of the canned crab meat sold in this country comes from the Orient.

Closer cooperation between the packers in the three States, with an advertising campaign to offset the campaign now under way by Japanese interests allied with a nationally known gelatine manufacturer will be urged by Earle. He also will endeavor to have the industry investigate the possibility of the "quick-freezing" process by which crab meat may be preserved for some time without destroying the flavor or changing the color.

Earle hopes to take the matter up with Richard Armstrong, commissioner of fisheries of Virginia, at a meeting planned for some time this month and he has been in contact with authorities in North Carolina on the matter.

Norfolk Navy Yard May Escape Cuts

"Prevailing Rate" Clause in Economy Bill on Wages Is Cited.

(Associated Press.)

A provision in the economy bill, revised by the Senate appropriations committee, may take the edge off the proposed 10 per cent wage cut as far as the Norfolk Navy Yard is concerned.

The bill exempts from the proposed reduction "any office, position, employment, or enlistment the compensation for which is adjustable to conform to the prevailing local rate for similar work," adding the Wage Board should take action immediately to adjust pay for such employment to the prevailing scale.

The bulk of the 3,600 employes at the Norfolk yard are paid on the basis of wages prevailing in the community. Mechanics, laborers, and helpers are paid on that basis, it was said, but draftsmen, storekeepers, and some others are paid salaries fixed by law.

The committee also revised the measure so as to eliminate the giving of Government agricultural and fish cultural stations to the States in which they are located. This gift provision, as written by the House, would have permitted Virginia to take over the large Arlington Experiment Farm on the Potomac River and two fish cultural stations—one at Fort Humphreys and the other in southwest Virginia.

$1,300,000 Road Work Will Start in Virginia

Richmond, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—Construction projects on the State primary highway system, aggregating approximately $1,300,000, were ordered today by Commissioner Henry G Shirley, who called for the earliest practicable letting of the bids.

The projects will include the commission's allocations for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Engineers of the department began preparing calls for the bids to be issued immediately.

MISSIONARY GROUP MEMBERSHIP GAINS

Report on Progress Is Given at 57th Convention of Disciples of Christ.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 1.—The annual report of the Virginia Christian Missionary Society, made at this morning's session of the fifty-seventh annual convention of the Disciples of Christ of Virginia, showed that progress had been made during the year, despite economic unrest.

The total church membership of the State is 43,665, an increase of 739 over last year, while the Bible school enrollment is 31,121, an increase of 249. One hundred and thirty-four churches with 22,418 members reported 1,590 additions—1,045 by baptism.

One hundred and sixty-two churches—25 more than last year—contributed $8,243.24, a decrease of $1,755.05; 119 Bible schools—16 more than last year—contributed $2,406.57, an increase of $266.51; 20 Christian Endeavor societies—six more than last year—contributed $203, a $35.82 increase. Gifts from individuals were $2,132.78 against $1,636.86 last year.

Total receipts from churches, Bible schools, individuals, field workers, and interest from the trust fund aggregated $16,738.01 against $18,996.19 from the same sources last year, a loss of $2,258.18.

The board, in its report, deplored the fact that it was necessary to curtail the program of evangelism. The budget had to be reduced and every department of the work had to take its share in this reduction. The Rev. W. H. Leake, after four years work as evangelist for southwest Virginia, was forced to give up the position and become pastor of a group of churches in Piedmont district.

Martz is survived by his widow. He was a son of Mrs. Mary F. Martz and the late George Martz, former county coroner and active in Democratic politics.

Charlottesville Va., June 1.—William Pendleton Sandridge, elderly resident of the county, was found dead yesterday in a cabin in the foothills of the Blue Ridge, near Brown's Cove, where he had lived as a recluse for the past ten years. He was last seen alive in the village yesterday morning. The body was discovered by a little girl who delivers milk daily at the cabin.

Mr. Sandridge was a member of a well-known Albemarle family, the son of Miley Sandridge, and was 83 years of age. He married Miss Ida Watkins, of Winston-Salem, N. C., who survives, with one son, William P. Sandridge, jr., who was graduated from the law school at the University of Virginia, class of 1928. He also leaves two brothers, James and Rice Sandridge, both residents of this county.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the Dunkard Church at Free Union, the service being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. George Maupin. Interment was in the burying ground at the church.

Woman, 70, Dies, Dream Of Leaping Niagara Lost

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., June 1.—Her ambition to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel was never realized by Mrs. Susan B. Grove, 70, this city, for she died yesterday.

Two years ago the woman sought permission for the stunt, but was denied the privilege to do so by the authorities at Niagara Falls, who threatened to prefer charges against Mrs. Grove and her manager, J. A. Love, Hagerstown merchant. A rubber company offered to make a rubber ball in which she could go over the falls, and she was offered money by movie reel concerns, she said.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BOSTON, Mass., June 1.—The American League's greatest liability, the Boston Red Sox, are despoiling one of the best baseball towns in the circuit.

All the fault doesn't belong to the Red Sox. They have won only 8 of 40 games this season, but they are just a poor club trying to get along without any help.

Apparently there are better business men among the National League magnates than in the American League. The willingness to trade and assist a tail-ender to make a fight out of the pennant race has transformed the Cincinnati Club from a chronic seventh place and cellar occupant into a pennant contender and tremendous drawing card.

Four clubs in the National League shunted players to the Reds and the result was instantaneous. The Reds perked, won more than their share of games, made money for themselves and every club that played them, and promise to be a money maker for the duration of the schedule.

The American League magnates are willing to trade with the Red Sox, President Bob Quinn said today, but they want to trade their worn out, broken down veterans for the few young stalwarts that Boston happens to have.

Quinn was angry today at reports that he was thinking of trading MacFayden. "I'm not trading MacFayden or anybody else on my club unless I get the players I want," he said. "I've had offers from four or five clubs, but they can't 'job' me out of my players just because we're down in the race. I'd rather see 'em go in a sheriff's sale."

The Red Sox have averaged hardly 2,000 fans at their home games. A crowd of 7,000, on a Sunday at Braves Field, is their best showing. The Braves, on the other hand, have weaned away what was essentially an American League following in Boston.

Two weeks ago on Sunday, the Braves set a new Boston record with an attendance of 51,000, with 8,000 turned away. Last Sunday, in a twin bill with the Phillies, they drew 38,000.

Quinn is president and one-third owner of the Red Sox and the team lost $300,000 last year. The Braves, on the other hand, netted $150,000 with a seventh place club that had its share of winning streaks and provided Boston fans with something other than a foregone conclusion.

The Red Sox can't go into the open market with other American League Clubs and bid for players. The owners have absorbed too many financial lickings during the past half dozen seasons. The Sox haven't even a minor league farm. Their only connection is a working agreement with the Hazelton Club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, which is calculated to help them about as much as The Post's second all-high team.

When the Sox were at their zenith in 1918 and before, it was they who were setting attendance records. Babe Ruth, who got his baseball start in the big leagues here, still draws thousands who otherwise wouldn't bother to see the Sox play.

The American League ought to take cognizance of the situation here. But, if it doesn't want to bother to unearth the pot of gold that the Red Sox franchise would represent if the team were strengthened, then the league deserves no sympathy.

Paul Shannon, dean of Boston's baseball writers, declared to this department that if the Washington Club as presently constituted represented Boston in the American League, the Red Sox owners would be certain to get a quarter of a million dollars this season.

Track Meet Annexed by Central

Regains Crown After 8 Years; Runners in Star Roles.

2 Records Shattered; Eastern Is Second by 13 Points.

DIVISION OF POINTS.

Central	51
Eastern	38 1-3
Tech	24 1-3
Western	8 1-3

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DENIED for eight long years of the highest award in the local high school track world, silver-thatched, sun-glassed old Bill Foley yesterday peered from an out-of-the-way spot at Central Stadium to see his Central Club run, jump and heave its way into the championship, ending a three-year Eastern High dynasty.

Central won most decisively, scoring 51 points to Eastern's 38 1-3, Tech's 24 1-3, and the last place Western's total of 8 1-3. It scored five firsts and was responsible for one of the two new meet records established during the blazing afternoon.

Emmett Buscher, Central, broke the two-year-old javelin record of 162 feet 2 inches by 9 feet 3¼ inches. The other record was demolished by Bill Beers, Western's one-man team, who catapulted his well-made body 21 feet 10 inches through the air in the broad jump, bettering by 1¾ inches the mark made last year by Grover Everett, of Eastern. The old javeline mark was the property of Conrad Allison, also of Eastern.

Stirring finishes marked the climax of virtually every event yesterday, but invariably the finishing tape was stained dark blue with the damp jerseys of Central's men. The dashes were a good barometer on how the wind was blowing yesterday, Central's great quartet of fleetsters giving beautiful exhibitions of sustained speed to capture between them all six places in the two speed events.

Grover Naylor, his legs pumping like the connecting rods in the motor of Freddy Frame's racer, streaked to victory in the 100 and 220. The 10 points he thus scored were equaled by Bob Stouffer, an Eastern hurdler, who is likely to make residents of Southeast forget the feats of Slye and Everett. Stouer won both the hurdles events, running two-fifths and four-fifths of a second behind the records. Vic Caron also of Eastern, took both second places, and Beers, of Western, both thirds.

Beers won all of Western's 8 1-3 points. Besides taking the broad jump, in record distance, he trailed in the hurdles and earned a second-place tie in the high jump, which was won on a sensational frontal dive by Dave Sprinkle, of Eastern, with the bar at 5 feet 8 inches.

The mile event was one of the prettiest of the day. St. John, of Central, reeling off the last 100 yards in dash time to nip Aserio, of Tech, who copped the lead at the start and hung desperately to it until a cruel few yards from the end. Another great finish was that of Bernie Lieb, in the 880, when he fought off both Lank, of Tech, and St. John to breast the tape first.

The meet was brought to a rousing close in the final event, the relay, when Tech, for the second time in twelve years, went down to defeat in this four-handed mile event at the hands and legs of a determined Eastern team. Tech held the advantage for the first two chapters, bu a bandy-legged kid named Joe Mahoney gained a 7-yard lead over Carlton Edwards in the third section, and lanky Bernie Lieb, his legs dangling like the white scarf of an old-time lady motorist, thundered down the home stretch to beat out Hartman by a breathless total of 2 yards.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Naylor (Central); second, Ditzler (Central); third, Smith (Central). Time, 0:23 2-5.

440-YARD RUN—Won by Babcock (Central); second, Hartman (Tech); third, Livingstone (Tech). Time, 0:54 2-5.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Lieb (Eastern); second, Lank (Tech); third, St. John (Central). Time, 2:08 3-5.

ONE-MILE RUN—Won by St. John (Central); second, Cleveland (Central); third, Moore (Eastern). Time, 4:57 4-5.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Stouffer (Eastern); second, Caron (Eastern); third, Beers (Western). Time, 0:16 2-5.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Stouffer (Eastern); second, Caron (Eastern); third, Beers (Western).

SHOT PUT—Won by Kocsis (Central); second, Gibbins (Central); third, Esunas (Tech). Distance, 46 feet 8 inches.

POLE VAULT—Won by Smith (Tech); second place, tie between Sprinkle (Eastern) and Rosenthal (Tech). Height, 10 feet 6 inches.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Sprinkle (Eastern); second place, tie among Beers (Western), Chapman (Tech) and Miller (Eastern). Height, 5 feet 8 inches.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Beers (Western); second, Sprinkle (Eastern); third, Robinson (Central). Distance, 21 feet 10 inches. New record. Old record, 21 feet 8½ inches, by Everett, Eastern, 1931.

JAVELIN THROW—Won by Buscher (Central); second, Gormley (Tech); third, Kocsis (Central). Distance, 171 feet 3¼ inches. New record. Old record, 162 feet 2 inches, by Allison, Eastern, 1930.

DISCUS—Won by Esunas (Tech); second, Gibbins (Central); third, Fitzwater (Central). Distance, 112 feet 1¾ inches.

RELAY—Won by Eastern (Richard, Mostow, Mahoney, Lieb); second, Tech. Time, 3:37.

England Stunned as Derby Is Won by April the Fifth

Orwell, Most Heavily Played Favorite Since 1906, Is Ninth in Field of 21; Crowd Near Million Mark.

By ALVIN HALLMAN.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 1 (A.P.).—Ten million dollars—probably more—were wrong today.

They backed Washington M. G. Singer's Orwell to win the Derby at 15 to 8, made him the most heavily played Derby favorite since 1906. But Orwell was nowhere, a poor ninth, at the finish as Tom Walls' April the Fifth, lightly regarded at 100 to 6, raced to victory in the 153d running of the English turf classic.

A few housand wisely placed pound notes of the actor and playboy friends of Walls, moving picture comedian and sportsman, proved emphatically right, when April the Fifth, closing with a great burst of speed in the final 100 yards, defeated the Aga Khan's Dastur by three-quarters of a length.

Lord Roseberry's Miracle, the second choice, was third, just a head back of Dastur. Then followed E. Esmond's Royal Dancer and the other half of the Aga Khan's entry, Firdausel.

The crowd—variously estimated from 500,000 to 1,000,000 and including the King and Queen and their sons—had dug deeply into its pockets to back Orwell, winner of the 2,000 guineas and Champion Juvenile last year.

When April the Fifth galloped across the line, with Orwell far back in ninth place, the crowd was so stunned a loud whisper up at Tattenham corner could almost have been heard in the inclosure. Then there came just a murmur of sporting applause as the grinning Walls led the victor into the winner's circle.

The race was worth the equivalent of $50,000 to the winner. April the Fifth's time for the mile and a half was 2 minutes 43 seconds.

It was really a grand day for the Derby. The sun shone brightly all day for the vast throng that trekked to the course. The hill, around which the difficult Epsom course

PITTSBURGH NINE LOSES TO PILOTS

Crawfords Beaten, 6 to 3; Cubans Here Today.

THE Washington Pilots of the East-West Colored League yesterday in an exhibition game defeated the highly rated Pittsburgh Crawfords, at Griffith Stadium, 6 to 3, with Oscar Charleston at first and in the pitcher's box, O'Bryant, speedy Pilot shortstop, and Warmack, scored in the first inning, and Warfield in the second, to take the lead.

Charleston scored in the fourth, and in the sixth was given a walk by "Nip" Winters. Gibson's home run into the left field bleachers scored Charleston ahead of him to tie the score. When Cannady hit to deep right field and Winters walked Duncan, he was yanked and sent to the showers, Hayes taking the mound. Perkins hit down the third base line, Cannady was out at the hot corner, and Perkins and Duncan ran into a double play, Warfield to Hughes to Love, the new Pilot catcher, who nailed Duncan coming home.

Sias' hit to left field in the Pilots' sixth, Hughes sacrificed him to second, Love went out on a fly to left field, and Warfield was walked by Cannon. Sias scored on Charleston's error, when Hayes drove the ball through first, and Warfield scored on the return from right field. Hayes romped home, also, on Jones' smashing hit to center field.

The Crawfords, with two out in the ninth, loaded the bases, P. Williams driving a liner past Sias, Russell sending a scorcher over the same corner, and Dixon getting a walk to first. Charleston at the bat, ended the threat and the game with a Texas leaguer which O'Bryant gathered in back in left field. The Pilots today and tomorrow, ladies' day, again will meet the Cuban Stars.

Miss Davis-Moffitt In Tennis Semifinals

Alice Davis and W. A. Moffitt yesterday moved into the semifinal round of the City of Washington mixed doubles tournament, at the Reservoir Courts, beating Sara Moore and Lieut. Grove, 3—6, 6—0, 6—3.

The only other regularly scheduled match in the tournament is the final of the women's singles, between Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Reba Kirson, next Monday afternoon.

MRS. CHENEY BEATEN IN ENGLAND

Enid Wilson Defeats U. S. Golfer by 3 and 2 Score.

SAUNTON, England, June 1 (A.P.).—The solitary advance of America's last hope in the British women's amateur golf championship ended today with the defeat in the semifinals of courageous Leona Cheney, 3 and 2, by Enid Wilson, powerful 22-year-old daughter of a Derbyshire country doctor.

The big Englishwoman who clouts a ball like a man, slashes it out of bad lies as Ted Ray used to do in his heyday, an drarely is under 250 yards with her woods, overpowered the fine California shotmaker just as she did Glenna Collett Vare yesterday, and all the others who have challenged for the title she holds.

Miss Wilson Favored In Final.

Tomorrow, in the final round of a championship no American woman ever has been able to win, England lines up against Scotland, as Miss Wilson plays the 36-hole final against Miss Clem Montgomery, champion of her own golf lands in 1924.

It is expected that belting Enid will win easily. Mrs. Montgomery defeetad Mrs. H. Clarke, of Ireland, in the other semifinal today, 3 and 2.

The last of the American survivors, herself the wife of a Los Angeles physician and former wife of Harry Pressler, golf professional, provided a strange contrast in both dress and golfing style to brawny Miss Wilson, a drab figure in a blue sweater and heavy flannel skirt.

Phils Beat Giants; Climb Out of Cellar

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The Phillies climbed out of the National League cellar today, rallying in the late innings to score a 4 to 2 victory that sent the Giants into eighth place.

Chuck Klein started things off with his thirteenth home run of the season in the seventh inning and a three-run rally against Bill Walker won the game in the eighth. Doubles by Klein and Hurst brought in the winning runs. Bill Terry and Mel Ott hit successive homers in the second for the Giants' runs.

Macks Down Yankees Twice

Home Runs by Bishop and Foxx Decide, 8-7 and 7-6.

Grove Credited With Victory as Opener Goes 16 Frames.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 (A.P.).—The Athletics used the same method to win both games of a long drawn-out double-header from the New York Yankees today and wound up only a half game out of third place. The scores were 8 to 7 and 7 to 6, the first game going 16 innings.

A homer by Max Bishop, with one on base and one out in the sixteenth, won the opener, the longest game so far in the major leagu season, and Jimmie Foxx's eighteenth circuit drive of the season, coming with one aboard in the seventh, supplied the winning runs in the second contest.

A crowd of 31,000 saw the twin bill that opened a six-game series, setting a season's record at Shibe Park.

The first game started out as a duel between Charley Ruffing and Leroy Mahaffey, and was carried into extra innings when the Yankee pitcher hit a homer in the ninth inning. Just a few minutes before Mickey Cochrane, pinch hitting for Heving, had smacked a homer with one on and then Coleman had walked and Cramer doubled to give the A's the lead.

Grove and Brokn Battle.

Lefty Grove replaced Mahaffey in the ninth, while Ruffing finally yielded to Walter Brown in the twelfth, but neither team could make a threatening gesture until the final inning.

Then Earle Combs doubled, Sewell sacrificed and Babe Ruth cracked a single that gave the Yanks the lead. Mule Haas, pinch hitting for Dykes, opened the hame half with a single; Roettger fanned and then Bishop stepped up and ended the game.

The Athletics got off ahead in the second game when they found George Pipgras for four runs in the first inning and Roger Cramer hit a homer in the second, but the Yanks forged ahead in the sixth with a four-run rally, topped by Arndt Jorgens' homer.

Cards Beat Cubs, 1-0; Rain in 7th Halts Play

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—A nice job of pitching by Dizzy Dean and a rainstorm today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 1-to-0, seven-inning victory over the Cubs, but cheated Pepper Martin and Eddie Delker out of home runs.

Dean, who had been admonished by Manager Gabby Street to either get going or get ready for a trip to Houston, Tex., held the Cubs to five hits, and with the aid of three double-plays, was in no real danger.

Martin, who appears to be on the loose again following his recovery from an injury, did most of the damage to Pat Malone. After Ernie Orsatti had singled to open the game, the Pepper stepped up and lashed out a triple for the only official score of the game.

Rain started to fall in the eighth, and after Delker and Martin had raked Malone for homers, time was called. It was still raining at the end of the customary 30-minute delay, and the game was called, these two homers not counting.

Brown Conquers Weiland As Cronin and Reynolds Supply Hits in 1st Inning

LLOYD BROWN.

In the Wake Of the Game

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., June 1.—The player deal that was fermenting between the Nats and the Red Sox appears to be doing a fade-out.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington Club, who was scheduled to confer with President Bob Quinn of Boston today, canceled his trip here for reasons unannounced.

Trade rumors had centered on Pitcher Danny MacFayden, of the Red Sox, but Quinn declared today that he had received no offers that could persuade him to release the accomplished young hurler. The names of Bob Burke, Joe Kuhel and Dave Harris had been mentioned as part of a prospective trade for MacFayden.

Manager Johnson, with high hopes for a clean-up in the six-game series here unconcealed, has nominated Monte Weaver and Bob Burke for pitching duty in the double-header tomorrow.

All of the Red Sox pitchers, with the exception of Weiland, are available for duty, none having lasted long enough in recent attempts to require further rest.

The acuteness of the pitching shortage of Manager Johnson is dismaying. Only seven hurlers are carried on the pay roll and unless immediate reinforcements are procured the Nats will be able to blame the collapse of pennant hopes directly on their pitching weakness.

The potential big guns of the Nats' batting order, Manush, Cronin and Reynolds, appear to be functioning in their best form at this writing, and their recovery at the plate would tide the Nats over the rough spots after the Boston series if the team gets its share of pitching.

A bird in the bush is worth a dozen in the hand, Carl Reynolds will testify. Reynolds was about to field Jolley's hit to right field on the first bounce when a pigeon swooped down from the roof of the stands and grazed his glove, permitting an ordinary single to go for a triple.

Boston Rally in 9th Ended With Fast Double Play.

Nats, Outhit by 8-7, Pass Up Several Scoring Chances.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Mass., June 1.—The Red Sox won the last eight innings this afternoon but the Nats won the ball game in the first with a two-run assault on Lefty Bob Weiland that proved sufficient in the light of later events. The score was 2 to 1 in a pitchers' battle between Southpaw Lloyd Brown and Southpaw Weiland.

The Red Sox never recovered from Weiland's faltering start which saw the bats of Joe Cronin and Carl Reynolds fashion the runs that won the game after Buddy Myer had walked to begin the afternoon's festivities. But just as surely as Cronin and Reynolds molded the vital runs, Lefty Brown nursed his slender advantage with great diligence and success and made it stand up under the eight-hit attack of the Red Sox.

Washington's memories of Weiland were not fond, for it was this left-hander who beat them back recently in Washington, and after the first inning the Nats were quite helpless at bat. But in the field they labored with great precision and effect whenever Brown appeared ripe for the finishing blows.

BOSTWICK EQUALS 20-YEAR-OLD RECORD FOR JOCKEYS

Steeplechase, Flat Race Winner

Rides Silverskin and Ha Ha to Victories at Belmont.

I Say Triumphs in Washington Park Feature Race.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, June 1 (A.P.).—Pete Bostwick, millionaire amateur jockey and polo player, equaled a record of long standing today when he rode two winners at Belmont Park, one through the field and one on the flat. The feat equaled W. Allen's performance, made twenty years ago, over a Canadian course.

In each race Bostwick had only to sit still to land his mounts home in front. Thomas Hitchcock's Silverskin, quoted at 11 to 5, galloped home eight lengths in front of his field to win the steeplechase event, while Frank Costello's Ha Ha reeled off 6 furlongs in 1:10 4-5, the second fastest time of the meeting, to finish six lengths in advance of W. L. Johnson's French Lass.

Bostwick's ride aboard Ha Ha gave the speedy son of Polymelian his seventh victory in eight starts as a 3-year-old. On the other occasion he finished second. He was the 3-to-5 favorite today.

A new threat for 2-year-old honors appeared in the Fashion Stakes when the Middleburg Stable's Glorify drove to a thrilling victory over the 4½ furlongs. The daughter of Sun Flag got home a half length in front of the Wheatley Stable's Edelweiss, with William Woodward's Happy Gal, winner of the Juvenile Stakes, third. The victory netted the winner's owner $6,150 and her scattered backers 12 to 1.

I Say, brilliant 3-year-old daughter of Dis Donc, owned by Albert Sabath, of Chicago, won her second straight victory when she defeated three others of her sex and age over 7 furlongs at Washington Park. The winner so outclassed her field in the mutuels that she paid only 35 cents on the dollar. E. McCuan's Sobieha ran second, five lengths back, with Coldstream Farm's Plucky Girl third. I Say is a candidate for the $10,000 Illinois Oaks, which will be run Saturday.

POLYPHOTE never far from pace, ran as if best and, taking a good lead when OSWEGO PRINCESS began to tire, held away to the finish to win easily. MINTOGEE, rushed into contention soon after the start, was a forward factor at end, but was not good enough. PRIMULE made up ground steadily and was going well at the finish. OSWEGO PRINCESS opened up a good lead, approaching the stretch turn, but tired in the run home. WARBLE had early speed. AFTER DARK went fairly well. BAGGAGE MISS was in trouble in the early running.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK COMET, $6.96, $3.70, $2.50; GAY PAST, $8.88, $4.04; FIDDLER, $2.62.

BLACK COMET lost little time in getting to the front and, withstanding the stretch challenge of GAY PAST, drew into a long lead nearing the finish. GAY PAST, going well, raced up to the leader at midstretch, but could not get to the front and tired in the final sixteenth. FIDDLER raced evenly, but was outrun by the leaders. RUSTY was shuffled back in the first quarter and made up ground in the stretch. ANGRY was in close quarters early and was never dangerous. RED ROAMER, far from pace, closed fast under hard riding and, catching MR. JOE near the finish, was slowly drawing away. MR. JOE followed the pace of VERUZZA closely to the stretch, then took command and, although holding on fairly well, could not resist the winner. HOPULIKIT could not keep up in the early stages, but was going well at the finish. VERUZZA dashed to the front soon after the start, but tired after being headed in the stretch. STIMOWAY was in early trouble and was never a factor. DUPEE also met with some early interference.

RUANE, under restraint in the early running, was taken to the outside in the stretch and, finishing fast, got to the front in the last furlong to win going away. Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

IT is commonplace in history that pivotal events of human destiny frequently are the inconspicuous developments of the day.

So general is the rule that an inspired American publisher several years ago added many cubits to his financial stature by publishing a book styled If—which was nothing in the world but an engaging philosophical speculation upon how today's history texts might have read had not certain negligible events occurred precisely at the time and place they did. The point of the work, as well as its charm, appeared to arise from the fact that the mere incidents which gave direction to the stream of history were at the time of their occurrence either wholly or generally dismissed as utterly insignificant to the happy-go-lucky human race.

* * * *

SO it was with the American gold standard in the year of grace 1932, Mr. Herbert Corey recalls in his new book, The Truth About Hoover, which is published today by Houghton Mifflin Co.

At the time of its passage last February the so-called Glass-Steagall bill was a mere incident in a strenuous and crowded session of the Congress. Not one person in a thousand throughout the United States sensed its fateful import. It is a matter of record that even some of those who honored the measure with their own high names in statecraft passed it with a snarl, a whine and an ill-concealed sneer. To some the bill was a mere incident in somebody's presidential campaign. To others, who finally voted for it, the move was "just another shot in the arm." By and large, it was only an incident, and the judgment of the country at the time was that while it might do no good, it certainly could do no harm. So the measure became law in mid-February.

* * * *

AFTER much laborious digging into the facts behind the historic White House conference which started the Glass-Steagall bill on its way through the House and Senate, Mr. Corey, who professes to write as a reporter, says:

"In 1932, Herbert Hoover, in relief of many men who know facts and the danger of the action taken, saved the world from a panic which might have been more devastating than has ever been imagined in modern times. It was due entirely to his leadership that this country was kept upon the gold standard. Not much has been said or written about that tremendously significant episode. I know its main features, but I am not permitted to say much of them. I can say this, as the considered judgment of men who were in a position to watch the field: A panic might have followed our desertion of the gold standard—must almost certainly have followed it—which might have shaken the slowly returning sanity of the world.

"This seems to be the language of exaggeration, but I believe it can be justified. If the United States had suddenly found it difficult to do the commonplace, ordinary day-by-day business, such as going to market and buying gasoline and dickering for a new car, because of a lack of a medium in which to carry on that business—

"Anything might have happened.

"Your guess is as good as mine as to what would have happened to this beset world if the United States suddenly had gone mad."

* * * *

BUT Mr. Corey's book is a great deal more than an economic treatise on gold and the business cycle. It is a bold historical document which takes up, one by one, all of the works of scurrilous anonymity which have figured in the "smear Hoover" campaign since the spring of 1930.

"I got into correspondence with the people that had done business with Mr. Hoover when he was in business and engineering," Mr. Corey says—"people in America, in Europe, in China, in Australia. I dealt with principals, not hired men. Their testimony is woven into my narrative."

And the conclusion suggests:

"No one who will examine the record with an unjaundiced eye will fail to be convinced that throughout this difficult period Herbert Hoover played the part of a great statesman and a courageous leader. * * * And yet, during all this time, no President of the United States, with the exception of Washington and Lincoln, was ever so persistently or untruthfully maligned."

IRVING TRUST TO ACT IN MATCH TANGLES

Creditors Select Bank as Trustee; Protection in Europe Urged.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The Irving Trust Co., receiver for the bankrupt interests of the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, today was elected trustee in bankruptcy for the International Match Corporation, at a meeting of creditors before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, Federal referee in bankruptcy.

The referee denied an application by a representative of the independent debenture holders' committee, of which Bainbridge Colby is chairman, for an adjournment of the election of the trustee.

David L. Podell, representing the committee, contended a proper list of creditors had not been prepared and the majority of creditors had not been notified of the meeting, and, therefore, had no voice in the elections.

Creditors at Meeting.

Mr. Podell said that in his opinion not more than 12 to 14 per cent of the creditors were represented at today's meeting. Declaring his request was in no way a reflection on the Irving Trust Co., he said his committee favored the election of three trustees, one of which was to be the Irving Trust Co., and the other two outstanding men with international connections.

In denying the application, Referee Ehrhorn said he did so because of the statement of James M. Rosenberg, counsel for the receiver, that a trustee should be appointed immediately.

Rosenberg said that a vast amount of litigation was pending abroad which required immediate defense and stated that in many cases immediate action had to be initiated to protect American interests.

"One thing is very clear," he said. "If all these match companies' concessions and the match industries are dealt with as a unit and as an operating industry they constitute a very valuable asset providing they are not allowed to be disintegrated."

Match Company Assets.

Mr. Rosenberg said the assets of the match company were divided into three classes, those which clearly belong to the match company, those in which there is some doubt of ownership, and those which are completely "in a fog."

He said that American creditors needed representatives in various countries, notably Poland and Germany, to protect their interests.

Rosenberg added that American interests in the Kreuger enterprises never had been represented abroad by an American, with the result that even wholly owned subsidiaries never looked to the International Match Co. for instructions.

Western Electric Adopts 4½-Day Working Week

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The working time of all employes, including officers, of the Western Electric Co., effective July 1, will be reduced to 4½ days per week from the present schedule of five 5 days, the company announced today. The company is the manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Reduction in working time, the company stated, was a further measure for spreading work among a maximum number of employes.

MONEY MARKETS

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The dollar was firmer in foreign exchange trading during most of today's session, but eased against some currencies toward the close.

News from Washington, indicating that the budget was to be balanced promptly, appeared to create a more favorable impression abroad and this was reflected in lower quotations for several gold currencies. French francs, however, took a late spurt that more than cancelled their loss and they closed nominally higher. Swiss francs and the belga also made late advances but Dutch guilders were off 2 points net.

German marks were steady.

Sterling cables reacted nearly a cent at one time but cut this loss to ¼ cent, closing at 3.68¾.

RECEIVERSHIP ASKED FOR WARNER FILMS

Third Suit for Accounting Is Filed at St. Louis; Looting Is Charged.

Wilmington, Del., June 1 (A.P.).—A suit for a receivership was filed against Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., in the United States District court here today by Harry Koplar, of University City, near St. Louis, Mo.

The suit also asked for an accounting from Harry M. Warner, Albert Warner and Jack L. Warner and other officers and directors of the corporation.

The bill of complaint asked that the individual defendants be ordered to account to the corporation for their official conduct in the management and disposition of the funds, property and business committed to their charge.

Directors' Accounting Asked.

It further asked that "if it be made to appear at the hearing that the negligence of the individual defendants, in failing to enforce the personal liability of former directors, should have aggravated the corporation's loss that the present directors be ordered to account for losses sustained in their negligence."

The bill also asked that the three Warner brothers be charged with the value of 100,000 shares of Warner Brothers stock alleged to have been received by them from the corporation in 1929.

It is alleged payment of this stock was a "looting operation" or an act of negligent mismanagement on the part of the individual defendants and that the corporation was damaged to the extent of $13,000,000.

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., was chartered in Delaware in 1923 and acquired the business theretofore operated as a partnership since 1915 by four Warner brothers. The company is engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures, studios being located in Brooklyn, N. Y., and Hollywood, Calif. It also owns a number of subsidiary concerns, controlling a large number of theaters.

Third Action Filed.

This is the third receivership proceeding brought against the company in recent months. The first suit brought in the Delaware Chancery Court last December by Jules Endler, of Passaic, N. J., was dismissed in February on motion of counsel for Endler. Another receivership bill was filed against the company on February 11 in the Chancery Court by M. V. Newcastle, who alleged the corporation was insolvent. This was denied by the corporation in an answer filed later. This action still is pending in the Chancery Court.

Hoplar, the petitioner, owns 5,000 shares of the corporation's capital stock, 1,200 of which are registered in his own name.

The directors, it is alleged, permitted Harry M. Warner to invade the studios of other producers and to induce their employes to break their contracts and to join Warner Bros. at extravagant salaries.

The bill cites that Warner induced Constance Bennett to leave Pathe, where she was getting $3,000 a week, and to join Warner Bros. at a salary of $30,000 a week.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

Stocks.

A sharp opening upswing called out heavy unloading, but the market community's enthusiasm over the long-awaited budget news from Washington was not lessened by the late weakness. Foreign news also was better.

Bonds.

Bonds rallied and sagged in step with stocks, but some of the industrials held their gains. United States Governments were firm. Reports of strong bond support from the Young committee persist.

Curb.

The new light and power tax in the Senate bill disturbed the utilities notably. Even here, however, sentiment was decidedly mixed.

Wheat.

Big traders went into a tantrum over the produce exchange tax in the Senate bill and, disregarding several items of bullish news, pounded prices down 2 cents.

Cotton.

July sold down to 4.99, 1 point better than the all-time record low. The general close was 22 to 26 points down.

RESERVE BANK GAINS IN LOOSENING CREDIT

Business Assistance Reported by Members; Buying of U. S. Bonds Helps.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Latest available Federal Reserve figures indicate considerable preliminary progress has been made in the system's intensive effort to loosen up credit.

Member bank reserves, representing the reserves kept by member banks with the twelve Federal Reserve institutions, show a substantial increase in the past three months. They have more than recovered the loss suffered between the end of June, 1931, and the end of February, 1932, when they touched their low point.

At the end of June, 1931, they stood at $1,808,000,000. They then declined $392,000,000 to a total of $1,416,000,000 at the end of February. Since then, under the aegis of Federal Reserve efforts to thaw out credit channels through buying Government securities, member bank reserves have increased to $1,753,000,000, an increase of $337,000,000.

While business has not drawn on the banks for any important amount of credit in recent weeks, these figures indicate that credit funds are piling up rapidly to provide for such calls when they come.

Leading industrialists and bankers in New York who are meeting under the chairmanship of Owen D. Young in an effort to bring potential borrowers and lenders together, express satisfaction with the present bank position.

In keeping with its aim to say little but do much, the committee of twelve is maintaining strict secrecy about its sessions, but it was learned that the Senate's action yesterday in taking direct steps toward balancing the budget was distinctly encouraging to the membership.

Majority opinion among New York financial leaders has definitely favored the manufacturers sales tax, but the Senate's action—even though it scrapped the sales tax suggested—was construed as encouraging because it specifically outlined sources from which new revenues might be obtained.

MARKET COMMENT

COTTON PRICES SINK TO BOTTOM FOR '32

July Contracts Close at 5.00, 23 Points Lower; Liverpool Reports Liquidation.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Cotton was active and feverish today, and while at one time prices were 7 to 10 points above the previous close, they subsequently broke 32 to 35 points to new low records for the season.

The July position sold at 4.99, or within 1 point of the lowest price ever recorded on the local exchange, closing at 5.00, or 23 points net lower, while the general market closed steady within a point or two of the lowest for the day, and 22 to 26 points below the final of Tuesday.

The opening was irregular at 6 points lower to 6 points higher, with the market considerably disturbed by the failure of a Liverpool house with local connections. This caused more or less liquidation and had a disturbing influence, especially on the near positions.

World consumption of American cotton during April totaled 1,078,000 bales compared with 1,149,000 in March and 1,004,000 in April last year, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service. Total consumption for the nine months ended April 30 was approximately 9,443,000 bales compared with 8,258,000 in the same period last season.

The reports from Washington that the Senate had passed the tax bill was given a constructive interpretation earlier in the day, and the market for a time displayed considerable stability, helped to some extent by the early firmness in the stock market. When stock prices subsequently gave way, however, and the weekly weather and crop bulletin was posted, indicating very favorable weather conditions for the growing crop, selling orders began to appear in volume and prices crumbled rapidly, with very little resistance.

During the day the market was subject to numerous rallies and quick declines and the evidences of foreign selling as well as more or less general selling, partly for Southern account, and the action of the outside markets undermined confidence, and it was evident that buyers were still inclined to be very cautious, leaving the market without adequate demand to absorb the heavy selling.

A private crop report published during the day indicated a decrease of 7.1 per cent in the acreage and made the condition of the crop 74.2 per cent of normal. The October position after selling up to 5.58 broke to 5.25, while March advanced to 5.95 and later declined to 5.62.

Exports today were 15,870 bales.

"For goodness sake, William, why don't you put on your new suit?"

"Well, with things as they are, I thought I'd better save it till next year."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Those 1932 Swim Suits.

THIS summer's bathing girls are going to make Mahatma Gandhi look like a man in a raccoon coat.

* * * *

When milady gets ready for her 1932 swim she will be a composite picture of a censor's dreams.

* * * *

They call it a "swim suit" and it is just a couple of shoulder straps held together by a contempt for legal technicalities.

* * * *

A few years ago such a bathing suit would have caused police intervention if shown merely in an art magazine.

* * * *

The girls have been shedding more and more each summer for the past ten years. Today they make Eve look overdressed and something of an old lady from Dubuque.

* * * *

The censors gave them an inch and they took off a yard.

* * * *

Those things they wear on the beaches today wouldn't have been tolerated five years ago even as underwear.

* * * *

Annette Kellerman wore 2 square yards more material back in the days when the police censored her act at the Hippodrome.

* * * *

No fooling, those 1932 swim suits are enough to make even Earl Carroll blush.

* * * *

They're really salt-water "scanties."

* * * *

Our beaches this year are going to look like the shower room at a golf club on ladies' tournament day.

* * * *

Of course, back of the demi-tasse suit is the idea of health. The girls are determined to be healthy if it takes their last shred of reputation.

* * * *

Whereas the old-fashioned bathing girl used to regard a sunburn as the last thing she wanted the modern bathing beauty figures the sun should reach new territory every summer.

* * * *

The bathing suit censors are being criticized. People say they haven't any backbone. But you can't say that about the bathing girls.

* * * *

They are out to get a deep coat of tan on every vertebra.

* * * *

On with the swim!

DENTISTS NOTWITHSTANDING.

My bridge is set,
The teeth are neat,
My dental work
Is now complete.

And yet, I must Confess the truth—
That only God
Can make a tooth.

M. McE.

Add similes: As remote as your chance of buying anything in a baseball park for the same price you pay anywhere else.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam has met the Prince of Wales, she being the first girl to do it on $20.

FORE!

The golfer held up the game on the putting green while he watched a pretty girl drive from a nearby tee. Then he putted, missed and started squawking.

"Do you know what your trouble is?" asked his opponent.

"No. What is it?

"A chicken in every putt," he replied.
